

Weekly Publishers Meeting Here

Iran Breaks With U.K.; Situation Seen Grave

TEHERAN, Oct. 16 (AP).—Iran broke off diplomatic relations with Britain today. It was a grave development in the bitter, 18-month dispute over nationalization of holdings in the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company and seemed to rule out any chance for a settlement. Premier Mohammed Mossadeq, frail but stubborn advocate of nationalization, made the announcement in a broadcast. By breaking off relations he made good a threat voiced several weeks ago. It was also his reply to a foreign office statement Wednesday which lashed out personally at Mossadeq, saying he had overstepped the limits of international courtesy in his attacks upon Britain. Mossadeq fired back today with a charge that Britain "by a continuation of useless correspondence" intends merely to waste time and "prevent us from taking another economic path which would bring salvation and freedom to the Iranian people."

Last January, Iran closed Britain's nine consulates in the country. Mossadeq's action today evoked little surprise at the foreign office in London. There was no official comment but informants said the statement Wednesday and the rejection of Mossadeq's latest offer in the Anglo-Iranian negotiations had virtually dared him to make the diplomatic break.

Mossadeq told the people that breaking diplomatic relations would not mean breaking "the bonds of friendship" between the two countries "because the Iranian nation always has looked with respect to the British nation, and hopes that the authorities of that government will give more attention to the realities of the present world situation and the awakening of nations and will forget the attitude so far has shown conforming its policies to the present world situation."

Foreign Minister Hussein Fattahi said notice of the Iranian decision would be delivered to the British immediately after the broadcast. Mossadeq had threatened such a break if his terms for settling the bitter oil dispute were not met. Britain rejected those terms as "unreasonable and unacceptable" in a note delivered Tuesday. The British government indicated it was standing pat on the joint settlement proposal made August 30 by Prime Minister Churchill and President Truman.

The aged premier spent six hours in consultations Wednesday night first with the parliamentary joint oil board and then with the cabinet. He also had a three-hour audience today with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi. The new British note insisted the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company must have full compensation for its properties nationalized by Iran 18 months ago.

It accused Mossadeq of forgetting British aid to Iran after the Second World War and of committing acts overstepping the limits of international courtesy. Washington took a serious view of the break. Officials there said it "knocked sky high" efforts to find a solution for the oil dispute and called it "most unfortunate."

Iran nationalized the Iranian properties of Anglo-Iranian Oil Company in the spring of 1951, and in July that year the huge Abadan refinery of the company closed down.

SUN-WORSHIPPER IN WOOD FINED FOR ROAMING NUDE

A Pemberton Woods nudist was fined $50 in city police court today on a charge of indecent exposure. Accused, in his late 20's, reportedly told the father of one of three youths who complained of his actions, that he liked to relax without clothes.

The "stripper" said he was unaware a school was close to his sunning ground. Margaret Jenkins School is nearby.

U.S. ELECTION FEVER

Adlai, Ike Warm Up As Voting Day Nears

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP).—Governor Adlai Stevenson's biggest and noisiest reception in San Francisco—and tumultuous receptions given Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in the south indicated today national excitement is reaching fever pitch as election day nears.

Stevenson's campaign showed signs of catching fire as he lashed out with fresh vigor at his Republican presidential opponent's "crusade." He accused the general Wednesday night of taking different positions in different states.

Eisenhower lashed back with charges that the opposition's "big guns and little guns" were telling "plain lies" when they said his election threatened another depression and an end to social gains and public power development.

President Truman took off on another whistle-stop tour, this time into New England. In a speech prepared for delivery at Hartford, Conn., he told voters their "bread and butter" and hopes for peace are tied up in the election.

The thoroughly partisan audience at San Francisco's Cow Palace cheered lustily as Stevenson accused Eisenhower of attempting to ride two political horses in California, and sarcastically referred to Senator Richard Nixon's campaign fund disclosures.

Stevenson's audience was estimated at 23,000 persons, compared with 21,000 which greeted Eisenhower at the same hall last week.

The Democratic candidate heaped ridicule on what he said was the "team of isolationists and cut-throat reactionaries."

He echoed the Republican "time for a change" slogan, but his version was: "It is time for a change—time for the independents and understanding Republicans . . . to recognize the real nature of the General's candidacy."

It appeared that the Democratic barbs were getting under Eisenhower's skin—for he has begun angrily to deny accusations as falsehoods and lies.

In two stops in Tennessee Wednesday he emphasized that his election would not "impair the effective working out" of the Tennessee Valley authority program.

In Oregon last week, he spoke out in opposition to federal authorities as the means of developing river basin resources. He proposed instead a local, state and federally-operated co-operative plan.

His final bold bid for support in the solid south by attempting to stir political rebellion in Texas, Louisiana and Tennessee aroused hopes in his camp that he might win some electoral votes in that area.

The Republican command figures the Republicans have at least a chance in five southern states—Virginia, South Carolina, Florida, Louisiana and Texas.

Boyd Calm On Sentence Of Life Term

Associates Get Long Sentences

TORONTO, Oct. 16 (BUP).—Edwin Alonzo Boyd, slight, 37-year-old Bible-reading bandit who robbed eight banks of more than $100,000 and staged two spectacular jail-breaks, was sentenced today to life imprisonment plus 27 years.

Judge Robert Forsythe wrote the last chapter of the Boyd gang saga as he sentenced the gunman on the bank robbery charges and on five other counts involving attempted robbery, car theft, and escaping jail.

Four other members of the bank-robbing gang including Boyd's brother, Norman, received long sentences, and the parents and mistress of Steve Suchan, another gang member awaiting execution for murder, were sent to jail for harboring Boyd while he was a fugitive. Suchan and Leonard Jackson were sentenced last month to be hanged for the fatal shooting of Toronto Detective Edmund Tong last March when Tong stopped them for questioning during his investigation of a bank robbery.

OTHER SENTENCES

Other members of the Boyd gang were sentenced as follows: William Russell Jackson, 22 years for bank robbery and escaping custody.

Joseph Jackson, 10 years for bank robbery.

Allister Gibson, eight years for bank robbery.

Norman Boyd, three years and nine months for bank robbery and harboring his brother Edwin after he had escaped from jail.

Joseph Lessio, nine months for harboring Edwin Boyd.

Elizabeth Lessio, his wife, six months indeterminate for harboring Edwin Boyd.

Mary Mitchell, six months indeterminate for harboring Edwin Boyd.

Mrs. Doreen Boyd, the gangster's wife, broke into sobs when Judge Robert Forsythe pronounced the verdict. As the manacled prisoners were led away, she broke from the audience and rushed to throw her arms around her husband and kiss him.

Queen Mary's Cold Reported Little Better

LONDON, Oct. 16 (AP).—Queen Mary, who has been kept indoors since Monday with a cold, was said by a household spokesman today to be "a little better."

AUSSIE SPEAKER MIFFED AT SPITBALL-THROWING

CANBERRA, Australia, Oct. 16 (Reuters).—Spitballs must not be used to awaken sleeping members of parliament, the House of Representatives ruled today. "I will not have paper balls thrown around," said House Speaker Archie Cameron after a new flurry. Last week he chastised an opposition leader for hurling several spitballs at a snoozing government member after a book slid off the man's relaxed chest.

Arms Machine Said Slowed By Complacency

QUEBEC, Oct. 16 (CP).—Canada's arms machine is losing momentum principally because a segment of industry is showing delay and indifference in fulfilling defense contracts, R. M. Brophy, Canada's deputy production minister, said today. He appealed to industry to maintain its responsibilities and said complacency has become so widespread that "we are facing situations where it is hard to get firms to take on certain types of defense contracts."

In other cases, firms were "slowing down" on work already in production and swinging priority to commercial instead of defense projects. Mr. Brophy added in a speech prepared for delivery before the annual conference of the Canadian Industrial Preparedness Association.

The way is still open for P.C. leader Herbert Anscomb to contest the Columbia riding. It has been reported Mr. Anscomb would like to enter the race, but many top Tories are against it.

The matter undoubtedly will be discussed at the P.C.'s annual meeting in Vancouver Saturday. Several Victoria P.C.'s, it is known, are trying to persuade their leader not to seek election in the Alberta border riding.

The two by-elections were called by the Social Credit government in an effort to seat its non-elected cabinet ministers. Mr. Bonner and Mr. Gunderson.

They must retain both seats or the C.C.F. will become the largest party in the Legislature. This, however, would not unseat the government.

Premier Bennett has already predicted a general election next year.

The policy committee of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (T.L.C.) reached agreement with operators Wednesday night at a meeting presided over by the labor minister.

The negotiating session was called by the labor minister following an unexplained breakdown of earlier settlement talks. Fishermen met in the afternoon to vote on an earlier tentative agreement but were told the terms were not acceptable to the operators.

Fishermen have been fighting for last year's prices, which were 11 cents a fish in the Vancouver area. The highest announced offer by the operators, represented by the Fisheries Association of B.C., was 7½ cents.

The union rejected this offer but it was accepted by Indian fishermen bargaining through the Native Brotherhood of B.C.

Financing to Await Vote At Spring House Session

Construction of Victoria's new Central Junior High School as well as the Lansdowne Junior High School has been held up by the provincial government until new funds are voted by the Legislature next year, it was learned on reliable authority today.

The government's decision confused the plans of Greater Victoria School Board to provide the necessary accommodation for the growing school population of the metropolitan area.

Earlier the school board had been given the understanding that financing of the new schools was assured.

It is understood the school board will be notified of the government's decision shortly.

FUTURE IN DOUBT

The ruling leaves the future of the new schools in doubt until the Legislature meets next year and considers new appropriations for school construction. The provincial government provides 50 per cent of the cost of schools.

Estimated cost of Central is $1,200,000 and of Lansdowne, $600,000.

"If this delay occurs it will be a terrible blow to Victoria," said Richard H. Reeve, chairman of Greater Victoria School Board, when asked for comment.

"The school has been condemned for several years. We have been operating through special consideration of the city fire department with the understanding we were to proceed with a new building at the earliest possible moment."

NO COMMENT

Premier Bennett was unavailable for comment and Education Minister Tilly Roltson was reported out of town.

Only today the city council public works committee, at a special meeting, advised the school board the city was willing to remove a sewer from the proposed school site at a cost of $3,000 to facilitate construction.

The school board had written the city earlier this week concerning sewer removal.

It stated plans and specifications for Central Junior were to be completed within a week by Wade & Stockill, architects.

They were expected to go to the department of education for approval next week. Once approval was given tenders were to be called immediately. Following completion of plans for Central Wade & Stockill were to start on Lansdowne School.

The Governor-General spent considerable time in the boiler shop and chatted with Alfred Francis, superintendent, and the machine shop's foreman machinist, Collie Woods.

He saw life rafts under construction, and in the din of the boiler shop, paid close attention to work on other equipment. He spent several minutes watching machinist Jerry Horne use metal spray equipment, and asked numerous questions in the torpedo shop about the intricate machinery in the "tin fish."

"How much does one of these cost?" he asked foreman Walter Giddens.

When the foreman replied "$25,000," the Governor-General remarked, "I would say that makes a miss pretty expensive."

"We think of the hits, not the misses," replied Giddens.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

MAINLY ABOUT MARMALADE

YOU WILL PROBABLY wonder what on earth anyone wants to write about marmalade for, and what there is to say on such a sticky subject. Believe it or not, a poet once rhapsodized about it in a "poem" entitled "Moment in Marmalade" of which the only stanza I know is:

"This bit of marmalade which I've not ate,
This almost square of toast, they'll save me yet."
I don't know what he was to be saved from, but that lefty thought inspires me to observe that marmalade is one of those things on which people's views differ almost as much as they do about politics—and the latter can be just as bitter-sweet, as I have found out in the last few months.

TASTE AND CONSISTENCY

TASTES VARY GREATLY in marmalade. Some people scorn it altogether in favor of the sweeter preserves. But, like the queen in A. A. Milne's delightful nursery poem who liked "a bit of butter to her bread," I like a bit of marmalade to my breakfast.

Then again, some like it sweetish, others like it on the bitter side; some like it reduced to a clear, almost jelly-like consistency, others demands chunks of fruit; some look for a happy medium, with recognizable but thin slices of peel. Still others want grapefruit and lemon mixed with their orange.

FRAGRANT MEMORY

I PREFER MINE made of Seville oranges and of fairly substantial consistency, because it happens that I was brought up in that tradition, revered from the days of my childhood. The cutting up of the fruit, the ritual of making and the smell of it cooking, remains as fragrant a memory as does that of the annual making of galling of mushroom ketchup—from mushrooms gathered in the border country around the Tweed.

But to come back to the present, the wide variation in marmalade tastes is reflected in the wide variety offered by the manufacturers. Some of the old-established firms—particularly among the British makers—have acquired a big following by sticking to one kind and never varying it, often using very old, and carefully preserved, secret recipes for the process.

BITTER BUREAUCRACY

IN THIS LATTER category is Miss Dorothy Carter, who for the past 20 years has been making marmalade in her cottage home in Iden, Sussex, to sell to her customers in this village of 300 people.

She made it from an old family recipe, and her customers liked its dark color, its chunky texture and its bitter flavor. They liked it so much that she could never make enough of it to meet the demand. But now the long arm of bureaucracy has reached out and stopped the white-haired Miss Carter from making any more like that.

TOO SAVING ON SUGAR

WHAT'S MORE SHE has been fined £1, with £4 18s costs by the Rye county magistrates. Why? For making her marmalade too bitter. The prosecutor quickly dismissed any idea that Miss Carter's product was in any way injurious to health. The council, he said, had been reluctant to prosecute, but had been compelled to because her marmalade had committed the crime of containing less sugar than the Food Ministry regulations required.

So from now on Miss Carter's customers will have to change their tastes and take their marmalade sweeter—whether they like it or not. Isn't it a bitter reflection on the weird and devious ways of bureaucracy that, in a country where sugar is still so scarce that it has to be rationed almost down to the last grain, the woman who can make good marmalade with less sugar will now have to use more—to sell to people who were more than satisfied with less?

U.S. 'Waters Down' Stand In Korea War

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 16 (UP).—Secretary of State Dean Acheson hands the United Nations today a watered-down version of the U.S. position in the Korean war.

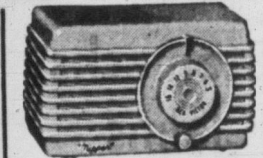

American sources said the speech would be more "moderate" than a manoeuvre planned originally to rally support for a showdown with the Communists on the stalemated efforts for a Korean truce.

Acheson's opening shot in the Korean debate, which is expected to dominate the assembly's seventh annual session, was described as a general review of the U.S. conduct of the Korean war and peace efforts, lacking any specific proposals or demands for settlement of the conflict.

The American statesman was scheduled to speak late this afternoon. He was the first foreign minister of a major power scheduled to appear in the assembly's general—or policy—debate. Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vichinsky was expected to speak Friday afternoon.

Atomic Attack Awaits Reds

U.S. Military Held Ready to Give Enemy 'Clobbering' When Allowed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (UP).—The U.S. military is ready to hand the Chinese Reds an atomic clobbering any time it gets the word.

Whether that word ever will be sought or given cannot, as of today, be foretold.

But America did some atomic muscle flexing Wednesday that can hardly be ignored either by the Communists already warring against the United Nations in Korea or by any others plotting similar aggressions.

A high defense official said the military is prepared to recommend use of atomic weapons in Korea when and if the right sort of targets develop.

And the army publicly demonstrated a battery of atomic cannon and announced it also is perfecting guided atomic missiles for "close support" of ground forces on the battlefield.

Hitherto the U.S. military has relied solely on the air force for delivery of its atomic Sunday punches if the grim necessity of throwing them should arise. The army is now on record as saying it, too, can give an enemy large doses of atomic firepower.

But the defense official made it clear the military has not yet proposed atomic warfare against the Communists. Only the President can authorize use of atomic weapons and up to how that authorization has not been sought.

If, however, "major" and "appropriate" targets worth expenditure of atomic bombs should develop in the Korean war, the official said, the military will not hesitate to ask a Presidential go-ahead.

He did not say what sort of targets would warrant employment of the tremendous firepower of atomic weapons. But other military experts have said the A-bomb would be hugely effective against great masses of men concentrated for an offensive—or against air fields, munitions yards, and supply depots like those maintained by the Reds in their Manchurian sanctuary across the Yalu River from Korea.

Britain Said Ready to End U.S. Grants

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP).—The New York Herald Tribune says Prime Minister Winston Churchill will propose to the new U.S. president a plan aimed at enabling Britain and western Europe to pay their own way without further American grants.

The newspaper quotes Edwin H. Leather, a Conservative member of parliament, as saying Churchill plans to greet the new president next March in Washington and hand him a three-point plan.

The newspaper, which describes Leather as one of the "young Tories" and a close associate of several cabinet members, gave this account of Leather's information: Churchill is expected to ask the new president to push through Congress: (1) Reduction of tariffs; (2) Adoption of a customs simplification bill which has been pigeon-holed for several years; and (3) Agreement on price stabilization for the world's raw materials.

Three New Mayors Take Office After Alberta Civic Elections

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 16 (BUP).—Three new Alberta mayors took office today following annual civic elections in the province's seven cities.

The mayors of Calgary, Red Deer and Lethbridge were elected to two-year terms in 1951. Mayor L. A. Bennett of Drumheller was returned by acclamation Wednesday.

Cattle rancher Harry Veiner, a "dark horse" entry in Medicine Hat's election, was named mayor. It was his first appearance in a civic election.

He defeated Mayor Wilson Riley, seeking his second term, by a vote of 3,438 to 1,682. Harry C. Leinweber trailed in the three-way fight with 550 votes.

Charles B. Enman, a veteran of 18 years on city council, was elected mayor of Wetaskiwin over two other candidates by polling 510 votes. Harry Lingmat polled 352 and the third candi-

Mr. Mayhew Goes to Japan

MR. ROBERT MAYHEW, VICTORIA's most distinguished citizen, now closes a remarkable career in politics to begin another in diplomacy.

As ambassador to Japan he will not perform merely ceremonial duties. He is assuming at this time one of the most important and difficult diplomatic posts within the gift of the government. Canada is about to negotiate with Japan a new trade treaty which may well set an example for the rest of the free world. As ambassador Mr. Mayhew undoubtedly will have a great deal to do with those negotiations.

Already he has shown a high ability in such delicate tasks and also a stubborn insistence on Canadian interests. The treaty which settled the fishing problems of the north Pacific as between Canada and the United States on one hand and Japan on the other was largely Mr. Mayhew's work and without his strong defense of Canada's rights those negotiations would have turned out very differently.

But apart from his experience in business, politics and diplomacy Mr. Mayhew is uniquely qualified for his new position by his understanding of Asia. More perhaps than any Canadian statesman he has understood that Asia may well hold the key to man's future, that peace and civilization itself may depend upon the ability of the white man to live in harmony with the colored world. He was one of the architects of the Colombo Plan, has persistently advocated generous policies towards Asia and has made friends for himself and for Canada throughout the Orient. No better man could be sent to Tokyo and all Victorians will rejoice that the abilities of their familiar fellow townsman have found this final recognition.

In appointing Messrs. Campbell and Sinclair to his cabinet after Mr. Mayhew's retirement Mr. St. Laurent has underlined the growth of British Columbia into the third province of Canada. It requires two representatives in the government, the task of representing it being far too onerous for one man. Both the new ministers, as parliamentary assistants of long standing, have been well trained for their new duties. They should strengthen the cabinet and the Liberal party in British Columbia.

Carving Up the Market

THE LATEST PLANS FOR THE economic recovery of western Europe are ambitious, world-wide and dangerous.

The Council of Europe has unanimously resolved that the western European nations, the Commonwealth and their overseas dependencies shall set up a new and restricted trading area among themselves. Low tariffs would be charged on all goods moving within this area, relatively high tariffs against goods from outside it, especially goods from such dollar nations as the United States.

In other words, a tariff preference would be established among the members of the new trading preserve and they would directly discriminate against the rest of the world. The original Imperial Preference system, now confined to the Commonwealth and Empire, would be extended to cover all the western European countries and all their possessions in Asia, Africa and elsewhere.

This scheme is so gigantic and as yet so amorphous that its full implications will not be immediately apparent. It will be seen at once, however, that Canada must be vitally affected.

More than any other country Canada lives on foreign trade and the largest part of that trade is concentrated in the American market. If Canada were to join the proposed European trading bloc and, with its partners, raise its tariffs against the United States then, of course, the United States would instantly retaliate and raise its tariffs against us.

We might gain some new markets in the restricted zone but at the expense of losing much of our far richer American market.

No Canadian government in its senses would consider such a bargain for a moment. The plain fact is that Canada is a dollar nation and when Europe undertakes to discriminate against dollar imports it must discriminate against Canadian goods.

Already, of course, it is discriminating against Canadian and American goods because it cannot afford to buy as much of them as it needs. Canada and the United States have accepted this discrimination as a temporary departure from the Geneva trade agreements, which forbid such practices. They have not discriminated against European goods but levy on them the same tariff applied to goods from any part of the world. And Canada maintains, in the British Preference, a system of partial discrimination in favor of British and Commonwealth goods.

It will be a very different matter if Europe repudiates the whole Geneva trade system and proceeds to raise permanent and prohibitory tariffs against the dollar nations, not only within Europe but in Europe's overseas dependencies. The United States and other dollar countries, excluded from the new trade preserve, will certainly retaliate in kind. Soon the free world will be split into two contending and hostile economic zones and its political unity inevitably will be undermined. This would suit the Russians admirably and go far to confirm Marshal Stalin's recent predictions.

Apart from these larger dangers, the Council of Europe's plan probably is unworkable in any case. Not for long would all the European nations—much less their overseas partners—agree to abandon their trade with the dollar nations since they desire dollar goods and can buy them at relatively low prices. The restricted preserve, even if it is established on paper, is not likely to last long.

These facts are so obvious that it is hard to believe that the statesmen of Europe seriously intend to embark upon a tariff and trade struggle with North America. Perhaps their project is mainly designed to indicate to the United States that the present state of the world economy is intolerable and somehow must be improved; that if the United States desires the full recovery and strong partnership of Europe it must begin to behave like a creditor nation and increase its imports.

That assuredly is one of the first two essentials of a stable world economy. The other is a change in the internal policies of the European nations, which must live within their means so that they can sell their goods competitively in the world market. No scheme of tariff discrimination, no restricted trade zone, can long protect them from the world's competition and the world's price, but the attempt to avoid the world market could produce great mischief, both economic and political.

A Tribute to Canada

THE ELECTION OF MR. LESTER Pearson as president of the United Nations Assembly is a tribute not only to a great Canadian but to the nation which he represents.

"Mike" Pearson—he is seldom called any other name—is perhaps the most typical Canadian of his time, and it is for this reason, one supposes, that he has succeeded so brilliantly in the harsh power struggle of modern diplomacy. For Canada, since its beginnings, has had to live mid-way between the giant powers beside it. Through this experience in conciliation and compromise Canada became a kind of middleman, the honest broker between the new world of America and the old world of Europe.

Now the struggle has shifted and against the free world entire is ranged the new imperialism of Russia. Their contest centres in the United Nations and today is concentrated in the immediate issue of the Korean war. It is for Mr. Pearson to preside over this clash of colossi.

Even the Russians seem to agree that he is the right man for one of the most difficult jobs of these times. It was Jacob Malik who said that he might ignore other speakers but that when Mr. Pearson rose to speak he listened. The United Nations is accustomed to listen to a relatively young man who has rapidly become one of the ablest and most respected diplomats in the world.

All Canadians, regardless of political party, will be proud that the United Nations has recognized not only a great Canadian statesman but a nation which has a unique contribution to make to the welfare of a harassed world. And if Mr. Pearson is some day to be prime minister of Canada, as seems possible, he is undergoing a unique apprenticeship, at home and abroad.

Too Much To Bite Off?

By WALTER LIPPMANN
From Washington

IT WILL be easy, having glanced at the program of the General Assembly which is now meeting in New York, to feel rather sorry for ourselves. There are several hot items coming up, none of them a direct American interest or responsibility, on which we may nevertheless expect to be damned if we do and damned if we don't. The United States finds itself, as a matter of fact, between its Allies in Europe and its friends in Asia. It is whipsawed on a series of questions, mostly African. They are questions which the United Nations are surely incompetent to settle, even if it has to be admitted that they are competent to talk about them.

MOREOVER, the inability of the United Nations to settle the issues it is unable to settle can only undermine the confidence which is the very foundation of the United Nations. For what else but the confidence of mankind can sustain a universal society in our divided and embittered world? Can anything be more destructive of confidence than compelling the United Nations to deal with questions where it must fail?

Remembering that, we need not think that the quandary in which the United States finds itself is America's quandary alone. It is the quandary of the United Nations as an institution, and the way in which the delegates deal with it will be a good measure of what they think of the United Nations.

THERE are bound to be many men throughout the world, and to be some in every government, who have no idea that they have any duty to the United Nations. They think as a matter of course that they have nothing to do in the United Nations except to go there for what can be gotten out of it in the way of prestige and material benefits for their governments, and for themselves personally as the procurers of these benefits. They are the pressure groups, the special interests, the lobbies, the machine politicians and the demagogues of the universal society. The United Nations, being a human institution, is bound to have its full quota of politicking, proportionately at least as large a quota as in the American Congress, as in the Indian Congress, as in the French National Assembly.

BUT the American Congress would have become entirely unworkable long ago had there not been in it also enough men who knew how, when it was necessary, to protect the institution against the special interests striving to exploit it. The future of the U.N. depends on men of this kind, on the delegates from all the continents who care more for the U.N. than they do about any dispute, and who believe it is their duty to defend and to protect the U.N. against special interests, over-zealousness and ignorance of the nature of the institution.

THE DEFENSE and promotion of the United Nations calls for something more than exhortation, more than a plea for moderation, for not forcing issues that are insoluble in the U.N. to the point where they become insoluble by any process. The exhortations and the pleas have to be made insistently. But the time has come, I think, to reaffirm the basic realities of the United Nations and to disown dangerous popular deceptions.

THE BASIC reality is that the United Nations is not a world government, and it has none of the attributes of a government. It does not enact laws. It can recommend measures but it cannot enforce them. It is a congress of diplomats. It is not a legislature. There is nothing that the General Assembly can do, or that any organ of the U.N. can do, which cannot be done—if the governments choose to do it—through diplomatic channels. The U.N. is a world institution created by the governments, to facilitate the diplomacy of conciliation in order to prevent war.

TO SAY this is not to diminish the U.N. The only way to help the U.N. to do what it was designed to do is to stop expecting it to do what it is inherently incapable of doing. The worst thing that can be done to the U.N. is to force it to deal with questions it cannot answer, with problems it cannot settle, with undertakings that it cannot complete, with conflicts in which it is unable to intervene.

THE RESULT of that is not only failure, not only loss of faith, not only heightened intolerance and intransigence, but also the diversion of the energies of the U.N. from its own constructive, useful and necessary work.

And what is that work? First of all, and most of all, it is to maintain diplomatic contacts between all quarters of the globe. That is why it might be said that the success of the General Assembly depends on whether the volume of serious private conversations among the diplomats is greater than the volume of their public oratory.

Under Cover Move?

Montreal Star

THE DECREE gone forth at McGill that students living in men's residences must in future make their own beds was, let us hope, given the most serious consideration before being made public. Perhaps even a little more thought might be taken before enforcement. There are arguments for and against which may not lightly be brushed off.

Can there be some quiet feminine influence behind these changes in Douglas and Wilson Halls, some smooth but ruthless plan to make better potential husbands for some girls out of these unsuspecting youths?

Almost any husband can at least dry dishes, but it takes skill, perseverance, patience, muscular strength combined with lightness of touch, a true eye, great mental control and balance, complete evenness of temper, gentleness and yet firmness of purpose—these and many another quality and endowment to make a bed. You are born with the gift: it cannot be taught.

Is the male McGill undergrad up to it? We doubt it. Better give the idea a six months' hoist and further study.

We were recently in your city for a few days' vacation and we wanted to let you know how much we appreciated being able to go into a restaurant to eat where there was no liquor sold and a clean, wholesome atmosphere.

We also appreciated shopping in the grocery stores and not seeing liquor for sale there. We believe your country is ahead of ours in this respect and thank you again for the hospitality of our Canadian friends and your liquor-free eating establishments.

ART EXHIBIT

Having viewed the current exhibition of pictures at the Moss Street Art Centre, I am wondering why so much stress is laid on "self expression." Had it not been for a few normal exhibits I would have concluded that the completion was for modern art only.

Granted we live in chaotic times, does the chaos have to be extended into the realm of art? Surely that could be left as a sanctuary for weary minds.

It is understandable that the troubled mind of an artist who has had close experience of the horrors of war, or any other personal upheaval, could depict "nightmarish" objects in all honesty but is there any need to cultivate that type of art?

Perhaps these modern artists, like Picasso, work tongue in cheek, trying to see how much the public will take without protesting. Be that as it may, there is the Vancouverite who submitted a group of paint brush splashes to a Toronto gallery and had his "joke" accepted. And other stories of pictures being hung upside down without anyone knowing the difference.

At the risk of being credited by the modernists with an immature mind, I would recommend for a good selection of artistic effort, the exhibits of our local schools. There is still worthwhile talent among the youngsters. It is to be hoped that the modern trend will not be allowed to invade the public schools. At least let us allow the young people to depict what the normal eye sees rather than what a frustrated mind may imagine.

"OLD FASHIONED."

RUNNING THE ROADS

In the columns of a graduation publication of a small town high school on the prairie there appeared, a few years ago, the following item: "Helen's father runs the lumber yard, her mother runs the house and Helen runs the roads."

Sometimes now when I walk down town and notice cars from all over the western world parked along the Causeway and dozens of people of all ages and profiles taking snapshots I get to thinking that, like Helen, the whole world has taken to "Running the Roads."

When I pick up the local papers I find what seems to be a competition for space between P.T.A. and other welfare organizations on the one hand, and on the other, such headlines as "Half Freshmen of Varsity Fail in English Tests," "Sadists Stone Cat," "Baby Bandits Broken Up By Police" and "Youths Smash Up Stolen Car in Wild Night Ride," and I get to thinking that perhaps Reeve Casey of Saanich had something when he "Lowered the Boom" a little by intimating that some women might send their children to pre-primary classes in order that they might "Run the Roads."

I hereby apologize to the reeve if I have unintentionally misinterpreted him. One mother at least has corroborated this view by informing me that after she had raised her own family she had been inveigled into helping supervise a children's playground and found that other mothers were dumping their brood, down to the tender age of two years, into her lap while they traversed the highways.

This mother said that the idea of mass or herd psychology deprived children of home life, and the confidence and love of their parents, their most valuable asset in starting them on the road of life, and often left them at 20 years with a certificate that would get them a $165 a month job licking stamps in a government department and with no more understanding of the real meaning of life than they had as infants.

Can they defeat Communism and make life in Canada worthwhile with this equipment? What sort of heritage are we leaving our youth? Sometimes I just wonder.

WALDRON GREENE.

THE PERFECT PET

I have attended several movies where the comics would show a picture depicting a cat always playing the villain and the moral of the picture to the children would be cruelties to cats.

A gentleman named John P. Dinney, however, has come to the rescue of the cat and says he is the perfect pet.

"No pet is so charming, none so desirable in the quiet home as the cat. Graceful and beautiful to look upon; dainty in taste and unobtrusive in manner, he is as welcome in the study or drawing room as in the kitchen. "Cats are generally misunderstood. They are presumed to be incapable of friendships and attachments but the contrary is the truth.

"To be sure, puss is not demonstrative; he does not kiss the hand that beats him. Nor does he express his emotions by barking, leaping and knocking one down. But the quiet rubbing against his friend, the gentle touch of his tongue means quite as much as the more raucous greeting.

"In many business enterprises cats are as much a fixture as the electric lights for the money they save their owners.

"If the whole cat race should be wiped out the world would be speedily brought to a realization of the value of the services, hitherto not properly appreciated. The perfect pet, indeed!"

Troubled Friendship

O. M. GREEN in London Calling

JAPAN'S entry into the Second World War roused Syngman Rhee to action and saw him importing Mr. Cordell Hull, the U.S. secretary of state, to recognize his revolutionary government as the government of Korea. It was through the U.S. army, when Japan fell, that Syngman Rhee got himself transported back to Korea as a private citizen.

For Maj.-Gen. Hodge, the American commander in Korea, distracted as he was between the refusal of the Russians to co-operate in forming a united government for Korea, and the impossibility of getting any sense out of the quarrelsome, factional Koreans, the arrival of such a man as Syngman Rhee, who was known and respected by all, must have been like manna from heaven.

By the end of 1946 Syngman Rhee was head of an interim government set up by Gen. Hodge as a sort of training ground for full autonomous government; and within less than three years, by the aid of the United Nations, he was President of the Korean Republic recognized by the United States, Great Britain, and others.

LONG EXILE
The change from the long years of exile, of fruitless appealing to indifferent foreign powers, of seemingly utter hopelessness, to this fulfilment of all his dreams was so sudden, so miraculous, that one cannot but think that Syngman Rhee's head was turned. It is only fair to remember that the difficulties confronting the young republic, the aftermath of the war, were enormous.

But Rhee and the Koreans made matters worse for themselves than they need have been. They had bitterly resented the wise decision of the allies that the government, which it was intended that America and Russia would co-operate in forming, should be under the allies' trusteeship for five years. They always resented it.

In spite of the Americans' unstinted generosity—pouring out hundreds of millions of dollars to restore Korea's factories, railways, roads, and schools—the Koreans would not co-operate, and Syngman Rhee himself was as unco-operative as any.

He intrigued against Gen. Hodge behind his back in Washington; he dexterously evaded alike the stages of the Americans (this was in the days of the interim government) and their remonstrances.

It is hardly surprising that in the spring of 1950 the U.S. Congress was only persuaded with the utmost difficulty to vote another, $100,000,000 to save Korea from bankruptcy.

HARD FACT

No amount of admiration for Syngman Rhee's life-long struggle can alter the hard fact that his government was not a good government and that he had the means of making it very much better.

Two overriding motives are plainly visible in all Syngman Rhee's actions. It had been the purpose of all his life to make Korea free and independent; now she was independent, and he was determined that she should be free from interference by meddling foreign advisers, however well intentioned their advice might be and whatever the consequences of turning to them the deaf ear.

There is much to admire and much to regret in Dr. Syngman Rhee's character. His undimmed bravery and devotion to his country's cause command unstinted admiration. He has some excellent ideas borrowed from America.

But like the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen of China, he has reached the stage at which he alone knows what Korea needs; he is angered by differences of opinion and impervious to argument. Such a combination does not make the hard problem of peace in Korea any easier.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"ANIMALS," said the Elevator Man, "can give us a lot of tips if we're wise enough to take them. You occasionally hear of animals doing foolish things. That makes news. But humans make news by doing wise things. That's the difference. The common sense we take for granted in our furred and feathered friends is something to crow about when we detect it in ourselves.

A lot of our ideas about animals are colored by the attributes we've given them ourselves. Foxes are foxy, pigs are pigish, mules are mulish, sheep are sheeplike, and so on. And we've taken them all over. Humans, too, are foxy, pigish, mulish and sheeplike. They're lion-hearted, eagle-eyed and bull-headed, too. We're always giving our cousins our qualities or stealing theirs from them. Some day they're going to revolt and call a halt to this. We'll give the animal kingdom the humanities, but they'll give us the bird. Lower man!

"Some of us," said the Elevator Man, "are smart enough to see in the animals a few improvements on our own way of living. Take that professor in South Africa, for instance. He wants to introduce the siesta into our customs, especially on hot days. He says you never see animals rushing around right after they've had their meals. They have sense enough to curl up for a nap. Why don't we curl up for a nap? We're too busy. What are we busy about? Making money to buy more food. So even while we're stuffed we're straining ourselves to get more food. How animals and birds must look with disgust on such an exhibition. Mezzanine!

"The results," said the Elevator Man, "of such conduct can be seen all around us. You never find a butter-fat animal lurching and puffing through the woods. You never find birds too fat to fly. But men and women—humans—think nothing of eating themselves into immobility. They store up enough fat for the coming winter, like an animal might, but then go right on munching. That's hard for birds and animals to understand. Of course some folks make valiant efforts to lose their surplus, like that woman who went into the butcher shop. She asked the butcher to cut off a 15-pound piece of beef. 'There you are,' says the man. 'Shall I wrap it up?' 'No thanks,' says the woman. 'I just wanted to see what 15 pounds looks like. That's how much I lost off my hips.'"

Province Makes Canada Secure Says Mr. Massey

With British Columbia at her Pacific portal, Canada can feel secure and complete in the west, Governor-General Vincent Massey said Wednesday at the Legislative Buildings in replying to Premier W. A. C. Bennett's address of welcome.

"As I have journeyed west, over the vast territories of our country, I have again been impressed with the vital and overwhelming importance of B.C. in its relation to Canada as a whole," said the governor-general.

More than 400 Victorians gathered in front of the Legislative Buildings heard the distinguished Canadian's glowing remarks about their province.

"The settlements of our country were once compared to a thin string of beads. To this necklace, British Columbia is a clasp," he declared.

In peace, he continued, British Columbia has been vigorous and enterprising, in war brave and enduring, and in the pursuit of knowledge and justice firm and generous.

On his arrival at the buildings, the governor-general inspected a crack guard of honor from H.M.C.S. Naden and was heralded by a 21-gun salute from the Royal Canadian Artillery.

It was a field day for amateur camera fans, and they snapped away throughout most of the ceremony, taking time out only to jockey for better positions as the governor-general moved about.

He was met on the steps, which were lined with red-coated R.C.M.P. officers, by Premier Bennett.

After officially welcoming the governor-general, Premier Ben-

Good Support Indicated for Poppy Drive

Poppy Day committee of the Canadian Legion reported Wednesday that Victoria merchants and service clubs are showing strong support to the annual drive.

The wreath selling campaign that precedes Poppy Day on Nov. 8 is aimed primarily at businesses and organizations. Campaign chairman, W. T. Bracken, reports a generous response and indicates also that service clubs and lodges in the city will assist with the street sales of poppies.

Poppies and wreaths are made by disabled war veterans and the funds realized from the campaign are directed toward assisting disabled and distressed veterans in this area.

Between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., on Nov. 8, there will be taggers on city streets.

Wider Apprentice Training Supported

A resolution supported jointly by Victoria Builders' Exchange and Victoria Local 1598 of the carpenters' union to widen apprenticeships will be put before the Provincial Council of Carpenters at its annual convention in Vancouver Nov. 20.

It would require yearly examinations for apprentices and would co-ordinate night classes with actual employment.

Both groups favor employment of school boys in July and August as an inducement to undertake apprenticeship in the trade, but to be limited to boys majoring in carpentry at technical schools.

The joint resolution, which will also seek to have boys move from one employer to the other to assure diversity of work, would require changes in the Apprenticeship Act.

Cumberland Alderman and Wife Meet Governor-General

City Hall council chambers were jammed with Island municipal leaders Wednesday at reception for Governor-General Vincent Massey. Above, Ald. W. M. Williams is presented to the first native born Canadian governor-general by Mayor Claude L. Harrison. Mayor's secretary, William Miller, is in background.

net presented him with an illuminated address. The premier introduced the governor-general to his executive assistant Ron Worley and deputy provincial secretary, R. A. Pennington, before entering the buildings.

As Governor-General Massey shook hands with Mr. Pennington, he said: "Oh, an old friend."

The vice-regal party, which includes the governor-general's son, Lionel, who is his secretary, then proceeded to the Speaker's room to meet provincial cabinet ministers and their wives.

The public reception which followed in the Legislative Chamber was attended by several hundred persons, many of them civil servants.

Only M.L.A. in the long line was the veteran Labor member from Fernie, Tom Uphill, who gave the governor-general a cheery greeting.

Earlier, Governor-General Massey met Victoria and other Island municipal leaders at a civic reception at the City Hall.

WELCOME PIPED
The vice-regal party was piped into the city hall by pipers Ian Duncan and James Marrs to the tune of "Scotland the Brave."

Following an address of welcome by Mayor Claude L. Harrison, who presented an illuminated address to his excellency, Governor-General Massey spoke briefly.

Termining Victoria the "west beyond the west," he said the capital city bears an especially heavy responsibility in the building of "this great land."

"Each community in our country has a different part to play in the building of this great land," he said. "Victoria bears an especially heavy responsibility. This role, as a Pacific community, was cast by geography and written by history."

He then reviewed briefly the history of the city, displaying a thorough knowledge. After the municipal leaders were presented, the Governor-General signed the city hall guest book. Mayor Harrison told Governor-General Massey it was on the same table and scarf that the late King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, and Queen Elizabeth II and her consort, had signed the guest book.

"This is indeed an honor," replied the Governor-General. The official party was piped from the city hall to the strains of "Glendaural Highlanders."

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

VICTORIA'S SUNSHINE RECORD TO DATE, 1952—2,916 HOURS

SYNOPSIS: Considerable cloudiness prevails over B.C. today following a mild surge of Pacific air that passed to the south of the province Wednesday night. Only the lower mainland and southern Vancouver Island remained unaffected this morning to mark up yet another sunny day in the current dry spell.

A small disturbance was gathering strength about 800 miles west of Vancouver Island this morning to bring rain to the northwest corner of the province Friday. Conditions in the rest of the province should show little change from today.

DOMINION PUBLIC WEATHER OFFICE 9 A.M. FORECASTS

VICTORIA: Sunny Friday. Little change in temperature. Winds light. Low tonight and high Friday: 45 and 60.

WEST COAST: Mostly overcast Friday. Occasional light rain or drizzle. Little change in temperature. Winds light. Low tonight and high Friday at Estevan Point: 50 and 55.

VANCOUVER AND GEORGIA STRAIT: Fog in low areas overnight. Brief cloudiness Friday morning, otherwise sunny. For lower low water, deduct 35 minutes; for higher high water, deduct 15 minutes. Little change in temperature. Winds light. Low tonight and high Friday at Vancouver airport, 40 and 55; Nanaimo, 40 and 62.

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP

When you buy straight Tomato Soup and add an equal amount of milk to produce a soup that tastes something like Cream of Tomato Soup, you lose out on getting a rich creamy flavour and you also lose out on the cost—especially the way prices are today.

Why not buy Cream of Tomato Soup to start with, as made by Heinz. Then you can save on milk and get a better result by simply adding water. Instead of a milky tomato soup you will get the true creamy taste most people enjoy—for Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup is made with thick country cream.

Remember, too, that this soup is much more flavourful because only pedigreed tomatoes are good enough for Heinz.

Try a comparison between straight tomato soup diluted with milk and Heinz Cream of Tomato soup with only water added. When you have tasted the wonderful difference you will want to stock up with Heinz and eat happily ever after.

HONORS KEEP PILING UP ON YANK PILOT

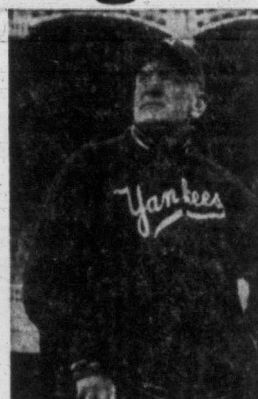

Casey 'Manager of Year'

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP)—Honors keep piling up on Casey Stengel. The grizzled 61-year-old pilot of the world champion New York Yankees Wednesday was named manager of the year for the second time by baseball writers in an Associated Press poll.

While it was not exactly a landslide, Stengel had a much easier time of it in the voting than his Yankees did in winning their fourth consecutive world championship under his direction. Stengel was named on 37 of the 72 ballots. He netted more votes than the combined total of the 15 other managers. Stengel first won the poll in 1949.

Eddie Stanky, a huge success in his freshman year as manager of the third-place St. Louis Cardinals, was second with 10 votes, giving scrappy Eddie the title of National League manager of the year. His total doubled that of Leo Durocher, voted manager of the year last year.

Stanky edged out Jimmy Dykes, colorful Philadelphia Athletics' skipper, Dykes received eight votes for steering the Athletics into fourth place, two notches higher than they finished in 1951.

"the old professor."

Tied for fifth place with four votes were Shuck Dreesen of Brooklyn, National League pennant winner, and Bucky Harris of Washington. Washington, seventh-placer in 1951, was an almost unanimous pre-season choice for the American League basement in 1952 but Harris directed them into fifth place.

In all, nine pilots received backing for the award. Two went to Phil Cavarretta of Chicago Cubs and one each went to Steve O'Neill of Philadelphia Phillies and Al Lopez of Cleveland.

Cavarretta led Cubs to a surprising fifth. O'Neill landed the Phils in fourth place, after taking over in mid-season following the release of Eddie Sawyer, the 1950 manager of the year.

The choice of Stengel was no surprise. The canny "ol' professor," who tied Joe McCarthy's record of four straight world championships, triumphed this year despite the loss of key players through injuries and calls to the armed services.

SCHOOL'S OUT WHEN MICKEY COMES HOME

COMMERCE, Okla., Oct. 16 (AP)—Mickey Mantle, one of major league baseball's newest and brightest stars, is going to get all the plaudits his home town can bestow at an all-day celebration here Friday.

He'll be honored with a parade and banquet. Schools will be dismissed all day so that youngsters can participate in the formal greeting to the 20-year-old outfielder whose hitting helped New York Yankees to their fourth straight world's championship.

COMPARED TO 'OLD MASTERS' Sedgman Centre of Tennis Controversy

BY GORDON TAIT
SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 16 (AP).—How does Australia's Frank Sedgman compare with the old tennis masters?

Two of Australia's great stars of yesterday, Sir Norman Brookes and Gerald Patterson, rate the 24-year-old world amateur champion as one of the two top players of all time. The other, they say, is Bill Tilden.

The discussion came up as a result of Gardner Mulloy's ranking of Sedgman as the seventh best player the world has produced. The veteran American star recently placed Don Budge, Tilden, Jack Kramer, Fred Perry, Ellsworth Vines and Bobby Riggs ahead of the Aussie ace.

"Frank loses too many matches to be considered a world beater," Mulloy said.

Fry, Harris in Gorge Vale Final

Shirley Fry will meet Miss L. Harris in the finals of the Gorge Vale Golf Club women's handicap championship Sunday.

Miss Fry advanced with a 6 and 5 victory over Mrs. R. Wake in while Miss Harris edged Mrs. J. Clark 1 up.

Flight results follow:
FIRST FLIGHT
Mrs. F. Gooch won from Mrs. L. Cann, 5 and 4.

SECOND FLIGHT
Mrs. J. Davis won from Mrs. E. Hersevoitch, 6 and 4.

THIRD FLIGHT
Mrs. B. Hutchinson won from Miss V. Orend, by default.

FOURTH FLIGHT
Miss K. Comerford won from Mrs. J. Bailey, 2 and 1.

Laurel International Draws Seven Starters

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 16 (AP).—U.S. thoroughbreds lined up for the first race of its kind. The one-and-a-half-mile race for $50,000 will be run on Laurel's infield grass.

Representing Canada is Indian Hemp, owned by publisher Max Bell of Calgary. Castleton from the stable of Edward P. Taylor, has been withdrawn.

The U.S. contingent was completed with the addition of Pilaster, an eight-year-old Maryland bred. The horse, owned by Mrs. H. L. Straus and leased to Frank Bonsal, got in after invitations were declined for Charfran Stable's Crafty Admiral and King Ranch's To Market.

The other American color bearers will be Hasty House Farm's Ruhe and Brookmeade Stable's Greek Ship.

Flown across the Atlantic Ocean Monday were the last two foreign representatives, George Rolfs' Zuechero and Robert C. Boucher's Wilwyn. They will represent England.

Germany's entry is Baron Henry Thyssen's Neiderlander. The two foremost U.S. riders, Eddie Arcaro and Johnny Longden, have mounts in the race. Arcaro will handle Greek Ship, the probable favorite, and Longden will be aboard Indian Hemp.

Dunn Rejects Garden Bout

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 16 (BUP).—George Dunn of Edmonton, Pacific Northwest welter and lightweight boxing champion, has turned down a $3,000 fight offer from New York that would have been his television debut.

Local ring promoter Jack Berry said it was proposed Dunn fight Percy Besset in New York City on October 20.

He said the offer was turned down as he planned to announce shortly a major ring engagement for Dunn in Edmonton late this month.

Gagnon in Line for World Title Match

QUEBEC CITY, Oct. 16 (BUP).—Canadian bantamweight champion Fernand Gagnon will meet Peppy Gault of South Carolina for the North American title here October 27, it was announced today.

Gagnon's handlers said the winner of the 12-round bout would meet Vic Towel of Johannesburg, South Africa, for the world bantamweight title.

CALGARY, Oct. 16 (CP).—A charge under the Lord's Day Act against a mechanic for repairing machinery on a Sunday was dismissed Wednesday in police court.

The mechanic, Harold Taylor, said he was called out last Sunday to repair a conveyor at a concrete plant, and that had the conveyor not been repaired work would have been held up the next day. Magistrate G. H. Rose said that there was an emergency arises there is no liability under the act.

Canada's Duck Population Double That of Last Year

BY HAROLD CLASSEN
NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP).—The greatest duck population in 20 years is headed south from the Canadian prairies and soon will be trying to outwit the hunters.

Bert Cartwright, Ducks Unlimited naturalist and biologist, now in Canada, estimates that the duck population in Canada is twice that of last year and predicts United States hunters will have the most targets they have had in 20 years.

But he was quick to add that the factors which produced this big duck crop may not be repeated for another 20 years and "that our conservation efforts must be continued."

Cartwright said the fair weather in May and June on the Canadian breeding grounds was one of the main reasons for the

Reynolds Tops Majors In Earned Run Average

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP)—Righthanders Allie Reynolds of New York Yankees and Hoyt Wilhelm, New York Giants' relief specialist, took major league earned-run honors for the 1952 season.

Final earned-run averages compiled by the Associated Press disclosed that Reynolds, who posted a 2.08 record, paced American League pitchers with a 2.07 mark while Wilhelm, a rookie, topped National League moundsmen with a 2.43 slate.

It is the first earned-run title for Reynolds, an 11-year man. The 34-year-old Reynolds permitted 56 earned runs in 244 innings.

Wilhelm, who won 15 games and dropped three, becomes the first relief pitcher in National League history to head the E.R.A. The 29-year-old knuckleballer appeared in 71 games, none as a starter. His record showed only 43 earned tallies in 159 frames.

BLIND STEALS FROM BLIND
 DETROIT, Oct. 16 (UP).—Salesman Walter Brake, 55, faced a larceny charge today for allegedly stealing a valise belonging to Matthias Morvitt, 70.

Police said Morvitt checked the valise at receiving hospital and a nurse handed it by mistake to Brake who made his way to a pawn shop.

Brake is also blind.

Senate Bill Said Threat

Bill H-8, now before a committee of the Senate, contains amendments to the Canadian Criminal Code which would deprive citizens of many of their inherent rights, Thomas C. Douglas, national executive secretary of the League for Democratic Rights, declared Wednesday night at a meeting in Victoria.

Speaking to a public gathering called by the local branch of the league, Mr. Douglas said Bill H-8 threatened to deprive Canadians of the right to strike, the right to picket, the right to speak freely and to do many other things now considered lawful.

He said rights-of-trade unionists were particularly threatened.

 CATSKILL, New York, Oct. 16 (UP).—A farmer in Catskill, New York, has been charged with sniping at an airplane with a shotgun.

Hugh Van Orde told police he took a shot at a low-flying plane because it annoyed him when it dipped near his property. Leo Boice, manager of Catskill Airport, was wounded in the face by shotgun pellets and glass, but authorities say the injuries were not serious.

Van Orde was arraigned on a charge of first degree assault. Said the farmer: "I just wanted to scare 'em away."

THE CANADIAN—Although some may think it out of place to discuss our distinguished visitor, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, Governor-General, under a movie column, I would submit that the man who is responsible for summation of the state of this country's arts, letters and sciences, an author himself, is quite in place. Surely motion pictures can be classified under culture.

If only for the record I wanted to recall the last time I met Mr. Massey. Certainly he wouldn't remember me, for I was only one of a number of reporters who called on him at Manitoba's Government House shortly after his return to Canada following his long tenure as Canadian High Commissioner in London.

As I remember it none of us were doing too well in our questioning of Mr. Massey. We were attempting to draw him out on international affairs, the state of Britain in the post-war years, etc., all to little avail. Owing to his recent post it obviously would have been out of place for him to make public his thoughts.

Just when the interview seemed hopelessly bogged one of the reporters asked him if he didn't think that the war had brought something new to Canadian soldiers, sailors and airmen? Made them prouder of their own country?

Mr. Massey became animated, almost excited. He told us how you could tell a Canadian in London at a glance. He had that certain assurance, alertness and energy that seemed to remove him apart from soldiers of other countries. Yes, Mr.

Massey emphasized, the war had brought home to Canadians abroad in the three fighting services the greatness of their own homeland, and a very special pride in it. He thought eventually that this would be brought home and used to good advantage for the cultural progress of the nation.

When we left Government House later we still hadn't had our questions answered. We didn't have a chance. Mr. Massey was still talking about the wonderfulness of Canada and Canadians and a future that seemed glowing indeed. As we left I think he remained in the minds of all of us as one of the best examples of a Canadian possible. Certainly I think we all agree now that no finer Canadian could have become our country's first native-born Governor-General.

Arrest Faces Japanese

TOKYO, Oct. 16 (Reuters)—Japanese police have issued warrants for the arrest of seven of the 13 Japanese delegates to the recent Communist "peace conference" in Peiping.

Their homes were raided today by about 800 police. The seven are accused of leaving the country without getting government permission. The government announced that no permission was granted to attend the conference but a number of Japanese went anyway.

RIP TIDE TRAP

Speedboat Rescues Two In Whirlpool

Dangerous rip tides of Active Pass capsized a 40-foot troller Wednesday morning, and two fishermen narrowly escaped with their lives.

Leo Carter, skipper, and Pat Little, both of Vancouver, were aboard the troller Spray, when she was thrown violently around by a large whirlpool, and in seconds went over on her side.

The men threw themselves clear, then clung to the capsized craft until rescued by Miss Ethel Clarkson, nearby resident, in her speedboat, Islander. The troller has been towed to Galliano wharf.

Three-Prong Attack Knocks Reds From Hill

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 16 (UP).—American doughboys knocked the Chinese Communists off "Jane Russell" knob today to give the United Nations complete control of Triangle Hill on the Korean central front.

After showering them with hundreds of white phosphorus shells, G.I.'s from the 7th Division hit the Chinese from three sides. One group struck from the main peak of Triangle, another from Sandy Ridge and a third from the east.

United Press war correspondent Fred Painton reported from the scene, however, that the Reds were "constantly" building up their forces on a northern finger leading to Triangle. He said reinforcements were believed coming from a regiment of about 3,000 men hidden in nearby foothills.

Some 700 bugle-blowing, screaming Reds from the hidden regiment assaulted the Americans on Triangle during the night, but got nowhere.

"We had good foxholes," an officer said. "Our wire was up and machine-guns zeroed in. We didn't give an inch. We completely busted up the attack. We cut them down with machine-guns when they got close."

The fighting continued all day until the Allies launched their successful attack on Jane Russell knob.

On Sniper Ridge, a mile to the east, nearly 1,500 Communist soldiers tried in vain to dislodge South Korean soldiers. The Reds launched six attacks ranging in strength from a company to a battalion.

Canada Coast Guard Aim of Mainland M.P.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 16 (BUP)—Tom Goode, Liberal member of Parliament for the Burnaby-Richmond, B.C., constituency, said he planned today to press for the establishment of a Canadian coast guard.

Goode told a district party meeting at Burnaby, B.C., that delegates from the Sea Island area had impressed on him that such a service was a necessity for safety, protection and rescue work in times of accident or disaster.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

An eagle-eyed constituent who obviously reads even the small print in the excellent advertising columns of The Times sends along a small advertisement for the motion picture "Dudes are Pretty People."

Says the ad: "Starring Jim Rogers, son of the beloved Will, and Noah Beery Jr."

Comments the constituent: "Not many men are fortunate enough to have two fathers."

John S. White, director of Greater Victoria School Board evening classes, is disappointed at the small response to a home mechanics course offered Victoria ladies.

It is reported that the school board had many, many inquiries from women interested in such items as fixing garden tools and repairing leaky taps, and other minor household mechanics.

So the school board, ever obliging, agreed to put on the course.

Unfortunately, only one woman registered, so the course was called off for lack of interest.

Well, I am only surprised that even ONE woman expressed interest in learning the right way to perform home repairs.

No sensible woman would ever bother with the RIGHT way, which involves hammers and screwdrivers, when she knows very well that a shoe-heel and a bobby-pin do just as well.

Women like to improvise their repairs, like using a bent coat-hanger to fasten the cupboard door, and pins to drape back curtains.

Why should women wish to learn the RIGHT way to repair a leaky faucet, when it is so much more intriguing to repair it the FEMININE WAY?

I have just had a sudden thought re the above. Perhaps women are just smarter than men.

Perhaps they have figured out what would happen if they took a home mechanics course, and were thus able to repair a leaky faucet just as well as the man in the house.

No longer would the woman of the house be able to say it was the man who had not repaired the faucet.

She, too, would have an equal ability, and therefore equal share, in not doing all the little repair jobs which are now exclusively not done by the man of the house.

A constituent has sent me a clipping from The Times, containing what he believes to be a typographical error.

He thinks this is amusing because it appeared in the same issue with a story saying that Jock Sneddon, our composing room foreman, was the man who ensures accuracy in the paper.

I must point out to this constituent that the item in question was not an error.

The item read: "The fires were small, and were all under control, fire officials said."

For your information, "fires" is a short-hand word for "forest fire."

Fires Under Guard

Wind Might Doom Island Homes

A bush fire that has crept down Skirt Mountain to within 500 yards of homes at Florence Lake, near Langford, is being watched in shifts by residents, firemen said today.

About 10 Langford firemen and a dozen volunteers worked on the fire Wednesday night, and reported the only danger would be caused by a rising wind.

"It is moving very slowly," they said.

The fire is burning between Lake and Millstream Roads, firemen added.

Although the weatherman predicts only light winds for tonight and Friday, there is no rain in the offing as the district moves into its 19th day without rain.

Except for smoke from fires, skies will be clear tonight and Friday, he said, with fog patches expected Friday morning.

At the Malahat, where 100 acres have been burned along Finlayson Arm, a crew of 28 men and one bulldozer is keeping the fire contained.

A crew of 14 men with one tank truck is working on the fire that threatened Nanaimo's wooden pipeline.

The pipeline is being used to hoist the blocks out of the water after they have been secured by the company's diver, Jack Daley. The blocks are then levelled off and cemented before being replaced.

If good weather prevails, the company hopes to complete the work in less than two weeks.

Saanich Council Storm Brews in Labor Squabble

Some lively debate, direct result of the Admirals Road bridge labor dispute, is anticipated at the regular meeting of Saanich Council on Monday.

Three factions with widely divergent views are expected to pull no punches in expressing those views.

There is one group of Saanich council members which will uphold the council's action in reinstating municipal employees who were threatened with discharge if they did not cross Pile Drivers' Union picket lines established on the bridge.

Other council members feel that the employees disregarded their contract with the municipality, and that the problem had nothing to do with the employees' union.

The third group, the employees themselves, will likely seek temporary adjustments in its present contract to permit payment of existing rates in other unions for certain specified work.

C.C.L. Classes Set

Leading Canadian Congress of Labor officials will take part in a two-day union institute to be held here Oct. 25 and 26, Victoria Labor Council officials said today.

Registrations can be made up to 8 a.m. on Oct. 25 at 715 Johnson Street, and lectures will be given at the Dominion Hotel.

Mr. Cunningham, former college registrar and assistant principal, who retired last year, told of former principals who felt a college was a "community of the spirit where reason will prevail."

"We knew nothing of neurosis and psychosis of gracious living or T.V.," he said of the College's earlier days.

"We did know of justice, purpose, honor and endurance."

Dr. Norman A. M. MacKenzie, president of University of British Columbia, in bringing greetings from the board of governors, faculty and students, said:

"We will grow together as co-operative and complementary institutions, not as competitors, except in standards of scholarship."

Richard H. Reeve, chairman of Greater Victoria School Board, told the gathering the "burning ambition" of the men and women from all walks of life who comprise school boards was "how to serve best the cause of education locally."

In opening the Ewing Building, Mrs. Rolston stated it was erected in memory of a man who gave his "whole-hearted devotion to higher education."

Education in B.C., she said, is designed primarily to help people earn a living and, second, to take their place in community life.

ALUMNI SUPPORT

Aubrey Roberts, chairman of the U.B.C. Alumni Development Fund, presented a cheque for $500 to the college's 50th anniversary library fund.

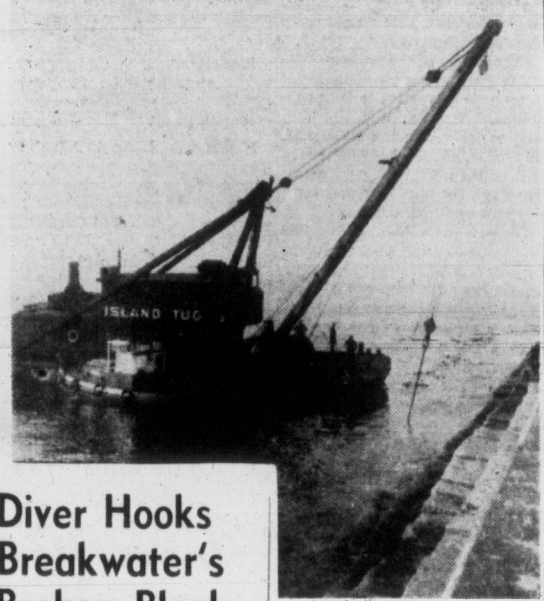

"I can only say, 'Go thou and do likewise,'" remarked Provincial Archivist Willard Ireland, chairman for the ceremony inside the Ewing Building.

Mrs. Rolston and the College and Normal School faculties in their black gowns led a procession from the auditorium to the new library.

Ray Frey, president of the College students' council, unveiled the portrait of Dr. Ewing. W. T. Straith, M.L.A., former minister of education, and Neal Harlow, librarian at U.B.C., spoke.

Dr. Hickman invited all to attend the public meeting at the College tonight when a panel discussion on the college's responsibility in the community will be held.

The new library will be open for inspection at 8, a program of recorded music will be heard from 8.30 and the panel discussion, to be broadcast over CKDA, will begin at 9.05.

Diver Hooks Breakwater's Broken Blocks

The breakwater at Ogden Point damaged by winter gales is undergoing repairs this week.

The Island Tug and Barge Ltd., which was awarded a federal contract to repair the breakwater, began work on the mole Tuesday. The contract calls for replacing 10-ton granite blocks which bolster the windward side of the concrete wall.

Company officials said many of the huge stone blocks under way have been knocked out of place by the pounding of heavy seas during the past several years.

These blocks have to be lifted out of the sea, possibly reshaped and replaced in their original positions.

A crane is being used to hoist the blocks out of the water after they have been secured by the company's diver, Jack Daley. The blocks are then levelled off and cemented before being replaced.

If good weather prevails, the company hopes to complete the work in less than two weeks.

Youthful Burglar's Identity Revealed

16-Year-Old Admits Guilt On 7 Charges

The so-long-elusive house-breaker, tabbed the "messy marauder," was brought from behind the closed doors of juvenile court today to open court to allow release of his identity as James Ernest Curtis, 1703 Fernwood.

Caught in the act in his last "job," Curtis appeared in city police court and pleaded guilty to seven charges of breaking into and attempting to loot city homes, mostly in his own neighborhood.

Magistrate H. C. Hall remanded the 16-year-old Curtis, to Monday for sentence. He requested a report from the probation officer and told accused he would be given a chance to present character witnesses.

GOOD-LOOKING YOUTH

Standing six feet one inch in his stocking feet, and weighing 180 pounds, the good-looking, dark-haired youth displayed no emotion as he elected summary trial on all counts and entered pleas of guilty on all counts.

He got the label "messy marauder" because of the manner in which he left houses, ransacking them in his search for loot.

Seriousness of the charges and "other circumstances" resulted in his appearance in senior court.

ON HIS TRAIL

Evidence was that Curtis started his one-man crime wave on Sept. 22. He had successfully broken into and messed up several homes when Detectives William Andrews and Richard Berry were put on the job with orders to "keep roving until you get him."

The detectives succeeded in learning the identity of the youth about 17 days ago, but could not touch him. He had been after money only and took no identifiable loot. He had to be caught "in the act."

After his sixth home raid, in the Fairfield district, Curtis "lay low" for 14 days.

TRAP SPRUNG

The plainclothesmen kept on his track. On the night of Oct. 13, when Curtis broke into the home of Walter Matthews, 1632 Chambers Street, they were on hand as he fled the building stuffing stolen articles in his pockets.

The detectives saw a flashlight in a room of the Matthews' home. Detective Andrews went to see if he could get in. Detective Berry standing by to catch the intruder as he left.

The upshot was that Curtis wound up in the arms of Detective Berry as he came running out the back door.

New Judge Take Court Post Friday

Judge L. A. Hanna, County Court judge for Nanaimo and Port Alberni, presided over Victoria's County Court today, at the invitation of Judge Joseph B. Clearihue, who became a member of the judiciary only Wednesday.

Judge Hanna took two cases which were arranged prior to Judge Clearihue's appointment. Judge Clearihue will preside over the court and all cases, starting Friday.

B.C. GASOLINE PRICES STATIC DESPITE EASTERN AREA'S CUTS

Gasoline and fuel oil prices remain the same in British Columbia despite price cuts announced Wednesday by Imperial Oil in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and several eastern points, company officials said today.

The price reductions in other parts of Canada were made possible by lower oil transport costs through use of the inter-provincial pipeline from Edmonton to the head of the great lakes.

In British Columbia, however, there have been no new savings in oil carrying charges.

Half of Imperial's crude oil for this province is imported from the United States by tanker and the rest by rail from Alberta.

GRASS ROOT INFLUENCE

Freedom's Heralds In Conference Here

By MONTE ROBERTS

At one time or other in the life of many a "big city" business man, there occurs the urge to get away from it all—and to start a chicken ranch or a weekly newspaper in the country.

Today at the Empress Hotel, you can find no first-hand information on chicken ranches—but you'll learn all there is to know about weekly newspapers.

And you'll learn it from the 60 independent publishers of 60 independent weekly newspapers which serve about 450,000 B.C. citizens.

These men, and women, range all the way from the ones who have known nothing but small-town publishing to those who have thrown over successful city careers for a life which gives them more freedom of action.

More independence—and possibly more headaches—than they could imagine existed.

They are the members of the B.C. Division of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association, here to meet for the 34th time, to exchange ideas, to pick each others' brains—and to ensure, to the best of their ability, the continuance of freedom of speech in Canada.

B.C. FIRST

The proud slogan of C.W.N.A. is that the weeklies are the "first herald and last stronghold of freedom." By and large, each publisher lives up to the slogan, each in his own way. First, they are independent in themselves, and in their business operation. Second, they are independent of the rest of the country in their regard for their own district. Third, they are independent in their insistence on B.C. first.

And fourth—they are fiercely Canadian.

Throughout the less populated areas of B.C., the members of the weekly press bring news of local importance to their readers. Yet their combined influence is more than local; the B.C. division of the C.W.N.A. claims to cover the areas which elect 70% of legislative assembly members.

BACK SHOP TALK

Their discussions in Victoria will be on trade topics, with emphasis on the "back shop" problems of smaller newspapers.

Victor Ball, publisher of The Fernie Free Press, is president of the B.C. division, with Lew Griffith, Cariboo Observer, as vice-president and chairman of the convention. Mr. Griffith will succeed Mr. Ball as president.

Second vice-president is Ron White, Kamloops Sentinel, and secretary-treasurer, A. W. Lundell, Revelstoke Review.

Robert Moore, co-publisher of The Swift Current, Sask., Sun, and president of the national body, is attending the convention. More than 100 delegates registered this morning for the three-day meet.

Violent protests by small loggers against the granting of large forest management licenses may possibly result in important changes in the government's forest management policy.

The changes are under consideration by Lands and Forest Minister E. E. Sommers in an effort to meet small operators' opposition to the licenses.

If the government approves the Celgar Development Co. application for a 1,000,000-acre management license in the Arrow Lakes area, it may possibly require the company to let contracts to small loggers for a certain percentage of the timber to be cut.

Other changes under consideration by the minister are:

1. Creation of a forestry advisory council to hear disputes and recommend changes in policy as they appear necessary.

2. Prohibiting sale or transfer of licenses until they have been held 10 years, to limit speculation.

3. Access to the licensed areas by the public on holidays, subject to necessary control by the company during fire season.

4. Provision that company roads in the licensed areas must be made available for other commercial enterprises, with details such as rates of pay to be settled by arbitration.

5. Stationing of a forestry department representative on every large management license area to ensure that terms of contract for sustained yield forestry are fulfilled.

General meeting of the South Vancouver Island Rangers, Inc., will be held Monday night at 8 in the auditorium of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' building.

Business will include plans for social and range programs. An R.C.M.P. police dog training film will feature the evening, junior division members invited.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

It was no "yolk."

H. J. H. Weber, 118 Joseph, complained to police shortly after midnight Wednesday "someone is pelting my house with eggs."

He asked that "an eye be kept on my place" in case the pranksters didn't have all of their eggs in one basket.

Robert Patch has been elected president of the Victoria Provincial Progressive Conservative Association.

Other officers are F. Spence, vice-president; Mrs. R. C. Campbell, secretary, and Mrs. G. McNaught, treasurer.

Saanich Constituency Association of the B.C. Social Credit League will hold an election of officers in the Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall, Tuesday, Oct. 21.

Agriculture Minister Kenneth Kiernan will speak.

Election of officers of the Victoria Federal Progressive Conservative Association will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Orange Hall, Courtney Street.

The association will discuss plans for the visit of national leader George Drew next month.

David S. Stuart, 4089 Quadra, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital Wednesday night with multiple injuries resulting from a spill from his motorcycle. Police said Stuart's machine hit a rock on the road in front of 2710 Victoria, throwing him to the pavement.

Prizes ranging from $20 to $5 are being offered by the Association for the Protection of Fur-Bearing Animals for the best children's essays on the subject "How best can wildlife be protected from cruelty?"

The contest is open to all children. Entries must be addressed to Miss N. Webster, Post Office Box 24, Vancouver, B.C.

The essay can be any length. It is to be written in ink or typed on one side of the paper only. The writer must give his age, class, grade and school.

The association which seeks to abolish cruel trapping methods is offering prizes of $20, $15, $10 and $5.

Husbands, even when separated from their wives, sometimes follow the example of love, and laugh at locksmiths.

According to a report received by city police, a Victoria woman who believed she had locked her apartment to make sure her estranged husband could not get in, awoke to find him standing by her bed this morning.

She reported that her husband had entered the bathroom window, and was chased from the building by the landlord after she screamed.

Police said damage was "medium" to cars driven by Albert G. Pugh, 4041 Cumberland, and Victoria G. Harvey, I.M.C.S. Beacon Hill, when they collided at Rock Bay and Bay Streets at 1:40 a.m. today. No one was hurt.

Washington Invites Hospital Insurance Speakers From B.C.

Donald M. Cox, assistant commissioner, B.C. Hospital Insurance Service, and George E. Masters, administrator of Royal Jubilee Hospital, have been invited to attend the annual convention of Washington State Hospital Association at Wenatchee, Wash., Oct. 22 and 23.

Mr. Cox is to give a description of B.C. Hospital Insurance Service and Mr. Masters has been asked to explain how the hospital operates in the plan.

Because of rapidly changing economy of hospital operations, administrators in the state of Washington are keenly interested in development of universal hospital service in B.C., a spokesman said.

Mr. Cunningham, former college registrar and assistant principal, who retired last year, told of former principals who felt a college was a "community of the spirit where reason will prevail."

"We knew nothing of neurosis and psychosis of gracious living or T.V.," he said of the College's earlier days.

"We did know of justice, purpose, honor and endurance."

Dr. Norman A. M. MacKenzie, president of University of British Columbia, in bringing greetings from the board of governors, faculty and students, said:

"We will grow together as co-operative and complementary institutions, not as competitors, except in standards of scholarship."

Richard H. Reeve, chairman of Greater Victoria School Board, told the gathering the "burning ambition" of the men and women from all walks of life who comprise school boards was "how to serve best the cause of education locally."

In opening the Ewing Building, Mrs. Rolston stated it was erected in memory of a man who gave his "whole-hearted devotion to higher education."

Education in B.C., she said, is designed primarily to help people earn a living and, second, to take their place in community life.

ALUMNI SUPPORT

Aubrey Roberts, chairman of the U.B.C. Alumni Development Fund, presented a cheque for $500 to the college's 50th anniversary library fund.

"I can only say, 'Go thou and do likewise,'" remarked Provincial Archivist Willard Ireland, chairman for the ceremony inside the Ewing Building.

Mrs. Rolston and the College and Normal School faculties in their black gowns led a procession from the auditorium to the new library.

Ray Frey, president of the College students' council, unveiled the portrait of Dr. Ewing. W. T. Straith, M.L.A., former minister of education, and Neal Harlow, librarian at U.B.C., spoke.

Dr. Hickman invited all to attend the public meeting at the College tonight when a panel discussion on the college's responsibility in the community will be held.

The new library will be open for inspection at 8, a program of recorded music will be heard from 8.30 and the panel discussion, to be broadcast over CKDA, will begin at 9.05.

Sighs for Gallant Past, Smiles for Hopeful Future Feature College Ceremony

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

Nostalgia for a good past, affection for the present and high hope for tomorrow were interwoven at Victoria College Wednesday night.

The men and women who have loved the college through half a century of mingled joy and adversity gathered to do her honor during celebration of 50th anniversary week.

They came to watch Education Minister Tilly Rolston open the new John Ewing Memorial Library and lingered to hear men like F. G. C. Wood and Jeffrey A. Cunningham speak kindly of the past and sometimes chide—but always gently—the trappings of the present.

"We were always a congenial company," confided Mr. Wood.

professor emeritus of U.B.C. of that first college class of seven in 1903.

And the audience felt it.

For the first time they saw the faculties of the Provincial Normal School and the College march together and sit side by side in a ceremony arranged to open a library both will share.

There's News in 1953
Table-Top Fashions

By PENNY SAVER

Setting a gracious table is a complex business for the modern young woman. There are such a great variety of styles now available in furniture, dinnerware, crystal and silverware that it is no easy task to select china, silverware and crystal that harmonize both with each other and with home decorations.

In recent years there has been a noticeable trend toward stark functional lines in both furniture and table accessories. This meant that all decorations which did not contribute in some particular manner to the serviceability of the article were eliminated.

This created a big problem for Canada's homemakers. Functional table settings, while lovely together, caused chaos when placed on ornate Victorian or Chippendale tables.

Table-top fashions for 1953, however, have been designed to solve this problem.

The stark functional lines of 1952 have been softened to blend in with the furnishings of any period from Hepplewhite to modern contemporary.

In china, soft greys and beiges are expected to gain in popularity over deep greens and maroons of 1951 and 1952. Fashion interest will be centred on borders where simple decorations, such as platinum edging, will be used to soften the stark effect of solid colored dinnerware.

Glassware for 1953 is being designed along casual lines with the emphasis being placed on medium-high stems. The result is a stemware style that is delicate enough to complement heirloom china yet simple enough in design to go well with modern pottery.

In keeping with this trend for a "softer functionalism" a leading silver company in Canada has introduced a new sterling pattern called Royal Danish.

In this pattern, as in all "functional" designs, form and line are primary, and surface decoration is merely a supplement used to emphasize silver's rich, natural response to light. The unadorned, shining shaft which in Royal Danish gives full play to lustrous natural sheen of silver, is softened by a simple deeply carved decoration at the base and tip. The result is a dramatic 1953 functional pattern that was created through an artful blending of motifs from both recent times and ancient ages.

Can't Afford Marriage?
Unfair Then to Go Steady

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK Ph.D.

A young man is in no position to ask a girl to go steady until he is able to ask her to marry him. That is why this young man should be a good sport about "his girl".

Q. I am 23 and have been going steady with a girl of 16. I was not working while I was dating her and didn't have a car. When we went out on a date, it was a double date, or we went for a walk, or went to her home and talked. A few days ago she met another fellow of 18 who has a car and is in school. She told me she liked him and wants to break up with me for a month and go steady with him to see if she likes him. I told her I would take her back if she finds out before the month is up he's not for her. I want her to come back very much but it must be on her own accord. Can you give me some advice on what to do, if anything?

A. So far as this girl is concerned there is nothing to do but follow the wait-and-see policy. She is very young for a man of your age and the schoolboy she has met is more suitable for her, where age is concerned.

Furthermore, unless you have steady work and a nestegg you are in no position to keep this girl from seeing other boys. You cannot even offer her the good times girls her age enjoy.

While she is trying to decide what she wants to do, why not get to work and save some money so you can give the other boy some competition? Naturally a girl likes to have fun on her dates. This takes money.

If she should decide she prefers you, and if you still want to date her, make it your business to see that she has fun. Furthermore, be generous. Urge her to go out with other boys and encourage her to go to school parties.

Several years from now, when she is older and when you are better established financially, you will then be in a position to get serious. At the moment, it is unfair to monopolize her so much.

Elizabeth Hurlock is one of the nation's great psychologists, and she will gladly help you with personal problems.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Brush and Massage Scalp
Whether Hair Oily or Dry

Women often have difficulty in deciding whether their hair is oily or dry. Of course, if the condition is extreme this is easy.

If your hair becomes oily three to five days after a shampoo so that it looks dank, you have oily hair. This is due to the fact that the small oil glands are relaxed and allow the oil to pour out over the scalp and hair. Your scalp will not be able to breathe properly. Dirt and dust will accumulate more rapidly because of the oily condition.

When you have a dry hair the ends often split. The scalp feels tight and sometimes scales. Many women classify this scaling from a dry scalp as dandruff. True dandruff is a serious skin disease which should be treated by a dermatologist.

Either dry or oily hair should be remedied because the beauty of your tresses depends on the condition of your scalp to a great extent. I have told you before in this column that one of the world's best hair authorities once told me that she believes, after long experience, that a tight scalp may lead to greying.

Stimulation of the scalp and the ensuing whipping up of its blood supply are corrective to both conditions. Massage and brushing tend to normalize the oil glands. Oily hair should be shampooed oftener than dry hair and once every 10 or 12 for dry hair.

There is no evidence that frequent shampooing is harmful to the oily scalp. If dryness is your trouble then it is better to go easy on the dunking because you want to keep as much of the natural oil as possible. There are splendid tonics on the market for both dry and oily hair. Try to overcome any abnormal condition before it leaves you with thinning, greying or dull locks.

Remember, too, that general health and fine nutrition are reflected in the condition of your crowning glory.

If you would like to have my leaflet which gives you rules for hair styling, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 51 "Framing Your Face Attractively" to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

St. Elizabeth's Church Scene
Of R.C.A.F. Morning Wedding

A Nova Scotia couple were united in marriage at St. Elizabeth's Church, Sidney, Vancouver Island, recently. Nuptial mass was celebrated by Father Williamson, the ceremony uniting Sarah Katherine Cohoon, daughter of Mrs. Cohoon, Canso, N.S., and late Cecil Cohoon, and L.A.C. Donald MacDougall, son of late Mr. and Mrs. Colin D. MacDougall, Main-a-Dieu, Cape Breton.

The bride was dainty in a ballerina-length gown of pink lace over satin. A chapel veil of illusion net was caught to a Juliet cap of satin and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and white asters.

The bride's only attendant was Mrs. D. Kanary. At matron-of-honor she was gowned in soft crepe with Juliet cap of velvet. Her flowers were pink carnations. L.A.C. James Hood was best man.

The home of F.Sgt. and Mrs. E. Goudet, East Saanich Road, was decked with autumn flowers and made an attractive setting for wedding breakfast. Toast to the bride was proposed by L.A.C. Head.

Prior to leaving for a honeymoon trip to Seattle and Vancouver, the bridal pair attended an evening reception given in their honor by Mrs. Kanary at her home, R.C.A.F. Station, Patricia Bay.

For travelling, Mrs. MacDougall chose a blue wool gabardine suit, navy blue velvet hat, navy shoes and bag and white wool shortie coat with corsage of red roses. On their return, the couple will live in Sidney, the groom being stationed with the R.C.A.F. at Patricia Bay.

Propaganda and Power of Press Subject of Publisher's Address

A newspaper should be vehicle for dissemination of stimulating ideas, J. Stuart Keate, Victoria Daily Times publisher, told Women's University Club Wednesday night in Business and Professional clubrooms.

"A paper does not ask the reader to concur in all the opinions," he said. "It presents a point of view, and hopes that the reader will weigh it off against other evidence in arriving at a final conclusion."

Speaking on the subject, "Propaganda and the Power of the Press," he said that news pages are properly the property of the community, and should be wide open to all parties, faiths and creeds.

"The editorial page is a sort of REGINA, Oct. 16 (CP).—The Catholic Women's League of Canada has a membership of 74,876, according to reports read at the 32nd annual national convention here.

Membership totals were contained in three organization reports submitted by Marguerite M. Burns of Halifax for eastern Canada, Mrs. M. F. McGlade of Smith Falls, Ont., for central Canada, and Mrs. H. Stevens of Calgary for western Canada.

Several organizational problems were discussed by the three conveners. Miss Burns stressed the importance of bringing the C.W.L. officially into public office.

"Many of our members served on boards as individuals. In some localities, we have made a concerted effort to have these women serve as official representatives of the C.W.L. and we have met with encouraging success," she said.

Mrs. Stevens discussed the problem of organization at the sub-division level.

"The C.W.L. is growing in western Canada, but its growth is too slow. All that is needed to remedy it is an earnest and sustained effort by our C.W.L. Diocesan Council to organize new units," she said.

Work with immigrants was discussed in a report submitted by Mrs. Lillian Martin of Halifax. It indicated that members of the C.W.L. had met 157 ships at ports of entry, welcoming 50,020 Catholic immigrants. A total of $8,971 was donated to the C.W.L. immigration fund, and of this sum $1,396 was spent for food and clothing.

Our Lady Missionaries, a religious order of missionaries for foreign fields, supported by the Canadian C.W.L., was discussed in Mrs. Martin's report and also in the report of the finance convener, Mrs. James Freeman of Riverside, Ont.

Mrs. Freeman pointed out that the league was obligated to raise $5,000 for the next two years for the missionary organization, and Mrs. Martin suggested that each subdivision sponsor one event each year.

Mrs. J. McHale, Jr., of London, Ont., reported that there were 102 Girl Guide companies sponsored by the C.W.L. across Canada, 101 Brownie packs and three Ranger companies. Mrs. McHale termed this "marked increase in Guide activity."

The spiritual convener, Mrs. James Pendergast of Kensington, P.E.I., outlined in her report a recommended spiritual program for all subdivisions concentrating attention on the liturgy of the Roman Catholic Church.

Mrs. Pendergast suggested that the league sponsor and attend a High Mass on the day of Queen Elizabeth's coronation.

Mrs. Frank Bussieres of Silvery, Que., submitted the report on social action, social welfare, child welfare, health and nutrition. She reported that a total of $49,823 was spent on welfare work in such categories as food, clothing and fuel to the sick and needy, overseas and flood and fire relief, aid to missions, spiritual aid, health aid. Social service work done by the league is in co-operation with social welfare workers, the report said.

Miss Isabel Hutton, Ottawa, who submitted the report of the laws committee, stated that the committee had been re-appointed and that by-laws of the organization were to come up for revision at national convention in 1933.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Immunizing Vaccines Need Four Follow-Ups

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

One reason why children have much better chances of growing up today than they did years ago is because of the vaccines and immunizations which can now be used against so many of the contagious diseases that formerly brought death to many youngsters.

This column will tell parents what some of these commonly recommended immunizations are and when they are usually given. Vaccination against smallpox comes first, usually within the first six months after birth. After this vaccination (which should be and almost always is a "take" at that age), immunization against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus (lockjaw) is usually desirable. There are most often given between six and nine months after birth, usually in four doses.

The inoculation against diphtheria consists of a "toxoid" which protects the child against the disease for several years. Whether or not this protection remains adequate can be checked by a Schick test of the skin at or about the time of entering school.

The injections against whooping cough can be given about the same time and are often combined with the diphtheria and tetanus injections.

These four are probably the most important protective inoculations for children. All of them, including smallpox, should be repeated in the later years of childhood to reinforce the resistance.

Between the ages of one and two the possibility of building up immunity against scarlet fever can well be considered. This is the only one of the inoculations which is rather likely to produce painful reactions.

OTHERS MAY COME UP

Sometimes the question of having other types of inoculations comes up—particularly regarding typhoid fever, which is a disease usually contracted from contaminated water, milk, fruits or vegetables.

If a person is going to some part of the world where the sanitation is poor, inoculations against typhoid and possibly other diseases may be desirable.

The advice of the physician who takes care of the child from birth should be followed when it comes to giving these protective inoculations. Just because two doctors do not give exactly the same inoculations at exactly the same ages does not mean that one is right and one is wrong, since some differences of opinion are justified.

Victorian at Peiping Hits Fishery Pact

TOKYO, Oct. 16 (AP).—The Communist Peiping radio has said that Elgin Neish, as a commercial fisherman from Victoria, told the Asian and Pacific "Peace" conference the recent U.S.-Japan-Canada fisheries treaty "forced" Canada and Japan to waive fishing rights in certain waters of the North Pacific.

"Thus the Bering Sea has virtually been made a fishing preserve for U.S. fishermen," the radio quoted him.

Neish is a member of the Canadian delegation of 12 attending the conference.

"Elgin Neish, who lives at 2109 Currie Road, is a former president of the Victoria local of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union.

He complained bitterly about the Canada-U.S.-Japan Treaty at the time the treaty was initiated by representatives of Canada in Tokyo last December.

U.S. Admits Plane Blasted South Koreans

SEOUL, Oct. 16 (AP).—The Fifth Air Force today verified a report that a U.S. marine plane accidentally attacked South Korean soldiers Tuesday just as they started an advance north-west of Kumhwa in central Korea.

Tribute Paid A. Musgrave By Engineers

Oak Bay Municipal Engineer A. S. G. Musgrave was lauded for his organizational abilities by the municipal engineers' division of the B.C. Engineering Society in a letter to Oak Bay Council recently.

Chairman F. G. De Wolf named Mr. Musgrave as the figure responsible for the formation of the society which today is represented in all municipal bodies in B.C. and is being emulated across the Dominion.

Mr. Musgrave has been secretary for almost 10 years and the group has requested that Oak Bay councillors allow him to continue in this office until such time as a full-time secretary can be engaged, Council gave approval.

SPORTSMEN LOSE LAKE

WESTVILLE, Ill., Oct. 16 (UP).—Local sportsmen watched their expensive efforts go down a king-sized drain today.

They had spent $45,000 and many hours of hard labor to build a 28-acre artificial lake, but overlooked the fact their new lake was located over an abandoned mine shaft.

ISLAND DIGEST

When the C.P.R. talks of losing money on certain runs to Vancouver Island it forgets revenue derived from E. & N. Railway mineral rights, Geoffrey I. Edgelow, Island Events publisher, told the Victoria North Kiwanis Club.

"The C.P.R. gets 50 cents from every ton of iron ore mined at the Aronaut Mine at Campbell River and the railway doesn't even run to Campbell River," he said.

SOOKE, Oct. 16.—With half a dozen slash fires burning out of control the people of this area are wondering why burning restrictions were not continued beyond the usual Oct. 1 deadline.

In addition to the volunteers who are trying to keep fires within reasonable limits, Sooke Volunteer Fire Department has been required to attend fires on the River Road, at Cooper's Cove, Woodside Farm, McKenzie Creek and up the Sooke River.

DUNCAN, Oct. 16.—A grant of $25 was made to the Salvation Army by Duncan City Council this week and a request by the Order of the Royal Purple to reserve a date in April for a tag day was tabled for reference to the incoming council of 1953. Plans will be made by the

THE LIP READER

We often pile in, & I press with my toe, to the "Tillicum" Outdoor Movie Show. It's nice to relax after the grind, I can rest my head & slowly un-wind. I wish years ago, 'twas then the rage, when our gals were in that Pabulum stage. What a boon it must be, no sifter you need, they even warm up the baby's feed. Marvelous hosts, they're not so dumb, "Kla Hi Yuh" means Welcome in Tillicum. Everything's there, you might be wishin', even French Fries during intermission. Play-yards for kids, even coffee they'll bring, yes, sir, they've got of every-thing. All planned out by a master-mind, expertly run and perfectly designed. ONE THING only they haven't got, & I'll bet it's only because they forgot. But before we tell you about this slip, we've got some new rugs, and each is a pip. Broadlooms they are, won't you come see. THE UNDERFELT WE GIVE YOU... all for FREE.

$149 is the very low sum, but let us get back to the "Tillicum" cum. WHAT IS THIS THING, this missing link, 'bout which I know, they didn't think??? I know they'll correct it, when here they see, so this is the story, as told to me. "My daughter," said this lady (she's sunny & sweet), "lives close by the Tillicum on Donald Street. She loves to go dancing, been always moon-lit, so I often go over & baby sit. My granddaughter's a dear, goes right off to sleep, & never yet has let out a peep. So I sit in the window, watch a movie queen, so easily viewed from the Tillicum's screen. But I get AW-fully mad, & the screen turns white, when the neighbors below leave on their porch light. "Well, HOW," I asked, "do you stay spell-bound when you can't of course... HEAR... the sound?" "Well I can easily tell if 'her' heart 'he's a win-nin', but I MUST look out, when the show is beginnin', It's hard to follow if I start in the middle, so I pull down the blind, and I say Oh Fiddle. But it's even worse, when on a clear, clear nite, those people below put on their porch light." This is her story of which she made mention, and NOW that it's brot to "their" attention; I'm SURE you'll see, one of these nights, flashed on their screen, "Please Turn Off Porch Lights."

"There's a lady back there on Donald Street, who can't see for nuts our big white sheet." They might even go further & so conspire, to string up to her, an electric wire. Because I am sure, they want NONE of their plays, presented like they were, IN THE OLD SILENT DAYS.

DUNCAN, Oct. 16.—Duncan City Council does not feel it has any funds to make a grant to the British Empire Games to be held in Vancouver in 1954.

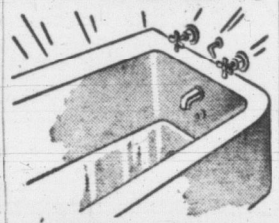

A request from Mayor Fred Hume of that city asking Duncan to contribute from any surplus funds was tabled without action. Mayor Hume pointed out that the city of Vancouver was giving $200,000, and it was hoped that both federal and provincial governments would contribute substantial sums.

WIFE GETS TELEVISION SET BACK BUT HUSBAND MISSING

CHICAGO, Oct. 16 (UP).—Alice Vokik had her television set today but not her husband.

George Vokik left their home last March, and took the television set with him because his wife was "glued to the set" and didn't have time to fix dinner.

George returned the set Wednesday when Alice promised to drop alimony demands in her divorce suit.

"What consolation will a TV set be on a cold and lonely night?" Judge Julius H. Miner said.

DAVIDSON, Sask., Oct. 16 (CP).—Highways Minister J. T. Douglas Wednesday snipped a ribbon strung across the road which officially opened the new 168-mile No. 11 blacktop highway from Regina to Saskatoon.

A crowd of 500 persons attended the ceremony.

Lawyer Plans 'Vagabond' Holiday

Well-known Victoria lawyer, Arthur P. Dawe, left Victoria today for Europe, where he intends to "vagrabond" through the continent, and then devote himself to some serious study in Spain.

The man who won $409,000 in an Irish sweepstake 20 years ago intends to do extensive research in Spain and England relative to early voyages of exploration to North America's Pacific Coast. This has been his hobby for many years. He has collected all kinds of information both here and in Mexico and now wants to conduct studies "at the source."

Mr. Dawe is particularly interested in learning more about the Juan de Fuca expedition said to have taken place in 1592.

Mr. Dawe believes the Spaniard actually did sail into the strait which now bears his name, although some have disputed this.

Mr. Dawe will have to learn Spanish in order to pursue his studies. He intends to spend a month or longer in the foothills of the Pyrenees.

Always a lover of travel, Mr. Dawe has sold his practice here. He is sailing Friday from Vancouver aboard the Pacific Unity and will travel through the Panama. He is making no schedule for himself but believes he may be back in April if all goes well. He still has work to do in Mexico.

Fred Pohl, a friend of Mr. Dawe, has recently gained recognition for discoveries in connection with visits to the Atlantic seacoast by Vikings hundreds of years before the famous Columbus voyage in 1492.

Since the first Canada Savings Bond was sold — interest payments totalling about ninety three and a half million dollars have been paid out to about one million owners. This represents an average return of approximately $100. Some owners have earned more interest than this — some less — but all would agree that they have had a handsome return for an investment that is cashable at full face value at an instant's notice. It is the easiest, most carefree way to earn money that one can imagine. And now the new Seventh Series of Canada Savings Bonds offer a better return than ever! They pay an average of 3.44% per year if held for their full term of 10 years and 9 months. The Seventh Series bonds—like earlier issues — are cashable at full face value plus interest at any time at any bank in Canada.

Canada Savings Bonds—Seventh Series—mature in 10 years and 9 months. They pay an average of 3.44% per year if held for this full term. The bonds are cashable at full face value plus interest at any time at any bank in Canada. Each bond bears ten 3/4% coupons—the first of these being payable on August 1st, 1954 (1 year and 9 months from date of issue). Subsequent coupons become payable August 1st yearly thereafter until maturity. If the bond is cashed before the first coupon becomes payable simple interest is paid at 2.14% per year calculated monthly. The average return per year gradually improves the longer the bond is held until it reaches 3.44% at maturity. The Seventh Series is available in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1000 and $5000 and the limit for holdings in any one name is $5000. The bonds are registered in the owner's name. They are non-assignable and non-transferable. They may be purchased from investment dealers, banks and other savings institutions or through the Payroll Savings Plan.

Pianist Coming Here, Highly Praised by New York Critics

Randolph Hokanson, who will appear in recital in this city, Oct. 22, under auspices of the Victoria Musical Art Society, received warm praise from New York critics for his performance last week at Town Hall.

Arthur Berger, music critic of the New York Herald Tribune, speaks of the pianist's "healthy approach to the keyboard" and "independence in program."

He played as if he were enjoying himself and he communicated this feeling to his audience. "He did the best work of the evening, in this listener's opinion, in the opening Bach group," the critic continues, but he adds, "he played six etudes (Chopin) with remarkable accuracy and there were moments of considerable breadth in the Ballade in F Minor."

Berger feels that "The first New York performance of James Beal's Second Sonata reflected a gratifying allegiance . . . to a fellow Seattle musician . . . and that the performance was 'of a kind' to give infinite pleasure to the composer were he present last night."

Mr. Hokanson will repeat his New York program in Victoria.

Beer Parlor 'Hog Trough', Critic Says

"A disgusting, overcrowded hog trough of a place" was how a delegate at Wednesday's Trades and Labor Council meeting described a beer parlor near which he lives.

The delegate, no teetotaler he pointed out, was speaking to a suggestion that the council prepare a brief for submission to the liquor inquiry commission at its next sitting in Victoria.

There was no need for the council to take a stand on the sale of liquor by the glass in restaurants, he said, but it could make suggestions for general improvement in administration of current liquor laws.

At the suggestion of Secretary Percy Rayment a committee will prepare a brief on the subject, to be submitted to the council for discussion before presentation to the liquor inquiry board.

Victoria T.L.C. Backs Wilkinson

Conciliation board officer W. T. McLaughlin is the choice of the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council to succeed George Wilkinson on the B.C. Labor Relations Board.

The selection was unanimous at Wednesday night's meeting of the council, after Mr. Wilkinson had formally announced his resignation would take effect Oct. 22. Mr. McLaughlin's name will be sent to the Provincial Trades and Labor Council executive for consideration.

"I am not bailing out of a sinking ship, not being fired out or interfered out," said Mr. Wilkinson in announcing his resignation to the body that had recommended his appointment five years ago.

He said the Labor Relations Board has a tough row to hoe in the immediate future but nothing worse than it has faced this year.

He vigorously defended the board and the I.C.A. it had administered. The latter, he said, has its weaknesses and its strengths but under it the trades union movement has been able to build the strongest body of its kind in North America.

The fact that there were 20,000 trades unionists in B.C. prior to the I.C.A. and 170,000 now was clear proof, he said, that labor was under no shackles in this province.

In a statistical review of the board's work, he said that out of 120 conciliation boards appointed in 1931, 113 had reported and of these reports 66 had been unanimous. Of the balance, 23 minority reports were made by employers' representatives and 24 by those of labor.

Mr. Wilkinson urged delegates to co-operate with the L.R.B. and in criticizing it, to be fair, factual and constructive.

Illustrated—Buick Custom 4-Door Tourback Sedan

You'll be amazed at the LOW price of BUICK

TODAY'S market conditions are the kind in which Buick really shines. Do you know why?

Buick prices start down within easy reach of the folks who, in the past, have been in the habit of buying lower-priced cars.

Fact is—a big chunk of Buick sales now comes from the folks who trade in one of these lower-priced cars.

For very few extra dollars, they're getting a lot more automobile.

They're getting more power—and the thrill that goes with it.

They're getting "big-car" comfort. They're getting a ride that cost a million dollars and more to develop.

They like the room, the fabrics, the extra appointments they find in the

They like the way it handles. They like the way it's engineered. They like the satisfaction they get out of touching off the power of its Fireball 8 Engine—and they like the miles they get from a gallon of fuel.

So Buick sales are booming. Not just the CUSTOM—but also the SUPER and ROADMASTER. Folks find that each one is the buy in its field.

When we tell you that business is great, we can back up that statement with figures. More people are buying Buicks than any other car at their price or above.

Why don't you come in and see for yourself what's behind this popularity? If you can afford a new car, you can be the proud owner of a Buick.

GOVERNMENT MOVE STALLS CITY'S NEW SCHOOL PLANS

Iran Breaks With Britain

Grave Development in Lengthy Dispute; U.K. Not Surprised

TEHERAN, Oct. 16 (AP). — Iran broke off diplomatic relations with Britain today. It was a grave development in the bitter, 18-month dispute over nationalization of holdings in Iran of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company and seemed to rule out any chance for a settlement.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, trail but stubborn advocate of nationalization, made the announcement in a broadcast.

By breaking off relations he made good a threat voiced several weeks ago. It was also his reply to a foreign office statement Wednesday which lashed out personally at Mossadegh, saying he had overstepped the limits of international courtesy in his attacks upon Britain.

Mossadegh fired back today with a charge that Britain "by a continuation of useless correspondence" intends merely to waste time and "prevent us from taking another economic path which would bring salvation and freedom to the Iranian people."

Last January, Iran closed Britain's nine consulates in the country.

Mossadegh's action today evoked little surprise at the foreign office in London. There was no official comment but informants said the statement Wednesday and the rejection of Mossadegh's latest offer in the Anglo-Iranian negotiations had virtually dared him to make the diplomatic break.

Mossadegh told the people that breaking diplomatic relations would not mean breaking "the bonds of friendship" between the two countries "because the Iranian nation always has looked with respect to the British nation, and hopes that the authorities of that government will give more attention to the realities of the present world situation and the

Poje Released Pending New Appeal

OTTAWA, Oct. 16 (CP).—The Supreme Court of Canada today ordered the release from Vancouver jail of Tony Poje, a labor union agent, pending his appeal from decisions of British Columbia courts.

Poje, an agent of the International Woodworkers of America Union, was fined $3,000 and sentenced to three months in jail for ignoring a court injunction prohibiting the picketing of a British ship in Nanaimo harbor. Poje refused to pay the fine and was sentenced to 12 months in jail.

Massey Hero To 1,600 Naden Tars

Grants Ships' Men
'Make and Mend'

Governor-General Vincent Massey today made himself a hero to 1,600 Pacific Command sailors at H.M.C.S. Naden.

After addressing the ships' companies of H.M.C.S. Athabaskan, Sioux, Beacon Hill, Antigoni, Sault Ste. Marie and Naden, by "royal command," the Governor-General gave the parading seamen liberty for the rest of the day.

He recalled the ancient institution of "make and mend" (remnants of days when sailors got time off to repair their own clothes) and declared that leave be granted to "everyone on this parade square as soon as possible."

There was suppressed joy on the square, as the men made fast plans for unexpected liberty.

LEAVE OCT. 29
Many of the men on parade are due to leave for Korea in Athabaskan Oct. 29.

In addressing the ships' companies, His Excellency noted with a smile: "As I recall, the whole navy before the last war did not have as many men as there are on this parade square."

The Queen's color was paraded for the first time at Naden.

The Governor-General inspected a guard of honor under Lieut. J. G. Brockhurst. Earlier the vice-regal party toured H.M.C. Dockyard with Rear Admiral W. B. Creery, flag officer Pacific Command; chief of staff Capt. L. L. Attwood; Cmdr. B. R. Spencer, dockyard superintendent; and Cmdr. H. G. Burchell, assistant superintendent.

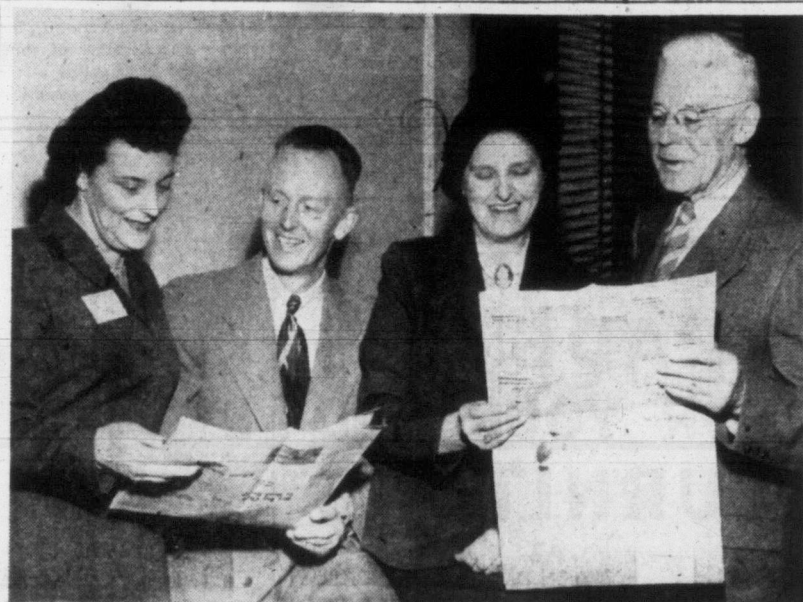

The Governor-General spent considerable time in the boiler shop and chatted with Alfred Francis, superintendent, and the machine shop's foreman machinist, Collier Woods.

He saw life rafts under construction, and in the din of the boiler shop, paid close attention to work on other equipment. He spent several minutes watching machinist Jerry Horne use metal spray equipment, and asked numerous questions in the torpedo shop about the intricate machinery in the "tin fish."

"How much does one of these cost?" he asked foreman Walter Giddens.

"When the foreman replied '$25,000,' the Governor-General remarked, 'I would say that makes a miss pretty expensive.'"

"We think of the hits, not the misses," replied Giddens.

loops Sentinel and second vice-president of the B.C. Division; Mrs. G. W. A. Smith, publisher of the Surrey Leader, Cloverdale, and Charles A. Barber, one of the deans of weekly publishing in B.C., who has retired while his son, L. E. Barber, carries on the Chilliwack Progress. (See story page 13.) (Times photo.)

Einar Gunderson in the legislature looked brighter today.

Announcement that Liberals and Progressive Conservatives will not oppose Mr. Gunderson in Similkameen, November 24, indicates a much bigger margin than the 44 votes by which Socred Rev. Harry Francis won over C.C.F.'er H. S. Kenyon in the last election.

Political observers say the Socred candidate picking up most of the free enterprise vote, which was split last June between three parties.

Liberals and Progressive Conservatives Wednesday night decided at separate meetings at Keremeos not to enter candidates in the Similkameen contest.

The Liberals, however, have

Wicks Expects Fish Strike To End Monday

VANCOUVER, Oct. 16 (CP).—Labor Minister Lyle Wicks said early today he expects British Columbia salmon fishermen, on strike since Sept. 6, to be back on the fishing grounds by Monday.

He made the forecast after the union policy committee of the 4,000 fishermen reported it is taking a settlement proposal to the membership with a recommendation they accept it.

Real economy is doin' without what y' don't need, not without what y' do.

Bob Mayhew ain't a young man, but I see he's takin' that old advice an' headin' west.

Looks like th' sidelines'll be crowded in them by-elections.

Financing to Await Vote At Spring House Session

Construction of Victoria's new Central Junior High School as well as the Lansdowne Junior High School has been held up by the provincial government until new funds are voted by the Legislature next year, it was learned on reliable authority today.

The government's decision confused the plans of Greater Victoria School Board to provide the necessary accommodation for the growing school population of the metropolitan area.

Earlier the school board had been given the understanding that financing of the new schools was assured.

It is understood the school board will be notified of the government's decision shortly.

FUTURE IN DOUBT

The ruling leaves the future of the new schools in doubt until the Legislature meets next year and considers new appropriations for school construction.

The provincial government provides 50 per cent of the cost of schools. Estimated cost of Central is $1,200,000 and of Lansdowne, $600,000.

"If this delay occurs it will be a terrible blow to Victoria," said Richard H. Reeve, chairman of Greater Victoria School Board, when asked for comment.

"The school has been condemned for several years. We have been operating through special consideration of the city fire department with the understanding we were to proceed with a new building at the earliest possible moment."

NO COMMENT
Premier Bennett was unavailable for comment and Education Minister Tilly Royston was reported out of town.

Only today the city council public works committee, at a special meeting, advised the school board the city was willing to remove a sewer from the proposed school site at a cost of $3,000 to facilitate construction.

The school board had written the city earlier this week concerning sewer removal.

It stated plans and specifications for Central Junior were to be completed within a week by Wade & Stockhill, architects.

They were expected to go to the department of education for approval next week. Once approval was given, construction would be started.

Following completion of plans for Central Wade & Stockhill were to start on Lansdowne School.

The matter undoubtedly will be discussed at the P.C.'s annual meeting in Vancouver Saturday.

Several Victoria P.C.'s, it is known, are trying to persuade their leader not to seek election in the Alberta border riding.

The two by-elections were called by the Social Credit government in an effort to seat its two non-elected cabinet ministers, Mr. Bonner and Mr. Gunderson.

They must retain both seats or the C.C.F. will become the largest party in the Legislature. This, however, would not seat the government.

Premier Bennett has already predicted a general election next year.

Vancouver Stocks Closing Prices

Stocks moved slowly in light turnover at Vancouver exchange in the final session today. Some investment support appeared for senior oils but most of the list was inactive.

Mining issues were a mixture of fractional gains and losses. Industrials were slightly firmer.

In the oils, Pacific Petroleum closed around $10 and York Oils finished at 37. Britalta closed at $5.75.

Korea Action Pledged

Acheson Lauds
Peace Talkers

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 16 (AP).—State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States said today the United Nations will not permit faint-heartedness to defeat its cause in Korea, but will fight on as long as necessary to reach a just armistice.

In a major policy declaration to the United Nations General Assembly, Acheson called on all members to support the common action in Korea with men, money, food, clothing and material.

This, he said, will "convince the aggressor that continued fighting in Korea will cost him more than he can gain."

"It is in Korea," he declared solemnly, "that our whole structure of collective security is meeting its supreme test. It will stand or fall upon what we do there."

The secretary praised U.N. truce negotiators at Panmunjom as "patient, flexible and resourceful," but did not make an appeal, which had been expected in some circles, for an assembly endorsement of their work.

Neither did he address a direct appeal to the Chinese Communists and North Koreans to agree to an armistice. Nor did he ask the assembly to threaten further action if the Reds failed to do so.

The entire speech, which included a summary of most of the tense international problems facing the world today, was conciliatory in tone and ended with a plea for peace and good-will in the world.

FINAL BULLETINS

95,000 U.S. Coal Miners Quit Work

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 16 (AP).—More than 95,000 coal diggers stayed away from the pits in seven states today protesting generally the failure of the Wage Stabilization Board to approve their $1.90 daily wage hike.

Restlessness spread in the wake of a strike threat tossed at the industry by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

Korea Casualty List Shows 4 Dead

OTTAWA, Oct. 16 (CP).—The army today issued its 142nd casualty list of the Korean war, reporting four killed, two missing in action and 21 wounded in action. The last previous list was issued October 11. The new list brought to 1,100 the number of casualties suffered by Canadian ground forces, including 201 dead, 813 wounded, 73 injured, 12 missing and one prisoner of war. (None in today's list were from B.C.)

Dispute Threatens Soccer Games

VANCOUVER, Oct. 16 (CP).—A dispute over referee fees may cause cancellation of all Coast League Soccer games in "A" division this week-end unless the two parties can get together and effect a compromise.

Whether the league executive can get volunteers to take the job during this "strike" is questionable but league president Jock Hendry says he can. He said that when a strike of referees was imminent two weeks ago two referees offered their services.
